WISH TO STAY HERE

Auctions Held Yesterday Morning of Belongings of Patients

"Please extend to Captain Watson and the Glendale Press my thanks for the help given the boys who are government patients at Thornycroft in their fight to have the time in which to evacuate this institution extended from April 15 to April 30. The extra time will give them time to adjust their plans and make new plans for the future."

This is the expression of thanks from Mrs. Nan Maxwell Miller, who conducts the Thornycroft hospital, at which former service men have been under treatment for tuberculosis, to Captain Watson, publisher of the Press, for his action in securing delay.

The boys at the institution who were the ones immediately affected by the action and protested the summary cancelling of the government contract with the institution said: "Thank Captain Watson for going to bat for us. We sure appreciate it, every man of us, and want to tell him so."

Joy reigns at the Thornycroft hospital, contract hospital in Glendale caring for former soldiers who served the nation during the world war and have since become victims of the white plague.

Through the efforts of Captain Thomas D. Watson, publisher of the Glendale Daily Press, who talked for some time yesterday over the long distance telephone to Major Louis T. Grant, manager of the Twelfth District Veterans' Bureau, an extension of time was granted to the boys, making it unnecessary for them to leave the hospital today.

The time of their departure has been extended until April 30. The boys feel that there is a faint hope that the order will be revoked en-

WAR ON MASHERS ORDERED BY POLICE

Accosting of Women on Glendale Streets to End Says Chief

War has been declared on mashers in Glendale as the result of a report to the police department today that a man had accosted a young girl who was alone on Maryland avenue. According to the story told by the girl, the man, after following her for several blocks in an automobile, left the machine and, as she approached a dark section of Maryland avenue, accosted her. According to the girl the man said some things to her that were "not very nice."

Lois Anderson of 125 South Isabel street, the girl, said she was going to visit friends on North Maryland. She noticed the man following her in a large machine. He asked her if she did not want to go riding. Upon her refusal, she said, he drove away and parked his car, with the lights turned out, in the shadow of some trees on Maryland avenue.

As Miss Anderson passed the parked machine the man again approached, brushing against her, and made remarks that Miss Anderson termed "not very nice." No trace of him could be found last night.

This morning Chief of Police Fraser said: "The annoying of unescorted women in Glendale at night will have to stop and stop at once. I have issued strict orders to the men of the department regarding the protection of women in this city, and they will be enforced."

STRUCK BY CAR ON CENTRAL AVE.

Mr. and Mrs. William E. Kortz of 341 Salem street met with an accident Friday evening when they were hit by an automobile on Central avenue. They were on their way to an Eastern Star meeting and as they stepped from the curb a speeding automobile hit them and knocked them both down, Mr. Kortz receiving severe bruises and abrasions. He received aid at the Glendale sanitarium and hospital. Mrs. Kortz was not so badly hurt.

Time to Take Stock of the Key of Life in Which You Exist

It is up to you whether you exist in the minor key of sorrow, melancholy and despair or the major key of life, light and happiness. This is what James W. Foley, poet, humorist and philosopher, sets forth tonight in "The Listening Post." He says it is not good to bewail lost opportunities but it is better to be glad there are still opportunities waiting.

Dr. Crane in his column says it is all very well to forgive and forget, but he says we should not carry our forgetfulness to the point of the past and cites the instance of the English hospital ship, loaded with wounded and sick and with nurses and caretakers which was torpedoed by a German submarine and sunk in less than ten minutes. Dr. Crane points out that after the armistice the English government demanded that three German officers be tried. A German court sentenced them to four years of imprisonment. All three escaped and Dr. Crane states the unescapable logic of these facts is that the most unspeakable criminals of the war still find German judges who can punish them with sentences that are ridiculous, German jailers who can help them to escape and a public opinion that shrugs its shoulders.

EASTER MORN IS HORRIBLE IN BIBLE LAND

Rev. Mottern Gets Copy of Cable From Near East Relief

The following copy of a cable received April 2 by the New York headquarters of the Near East Relief, has been received by the Rev. Mr. Mottern, local head of the work here:

"Alexandropol.

"With the break-up of winter in the mountain villages of central Armenia, near-East relief investigators revealed terrible starvation among refugees and orphans. K. A. Downer of Kingston, N. Y., returned from a 5-day horseback visit to 20 villages having a population of 25,000 people. He says that foodstuffs throughout the area are exhausted.

"Bread is made from all sorts of substitutes, including flax chaff and sawdust having no appreciable food value. The people are extracting undigested materials from old refuse and giving it to the children. Health conditions are critical. Gastric and intestinal troubles prevealing due to malnutrition. A large percent of the people are suffering from skin diseases. One-fourth of the adults are incapaciated and bedridden. Only one in fifty of the population is normal.

"In the villages visited there are 1500 orphans who should be removed immediately if they are to live. Even in small villages the weekly death list includes ten children. In many villages all children have lost their hair during the winter. Several cases were so desperate that the people resorted to eating of human flesh which practice was sharply punished by the authorities. Officials said that they are doing all they can to prevent it but the people lose their senses from hunger.

"At Mahmaudchuk visited family of 15 persons a month ago. Now only three of the family remain. The dead include all the male members of the family.

"All village inhabitants expressed concern about securing seed and grain for spring planting. Hope is expressed that the Armenian government would obtain seed particularly barley.

"The headman of the largest village, said: 'If we can secure seed we shall be on our feet by midsummer. If we don't get seed we are doomed to death.'

MID-WEST FLOODS DAMAGE INCREASES

CHICAGO, April 15.—Following five weeks of nearly daily rain, rivers in the Mississippi, Ohio and Missouri basins were overflowing today, causing millions of dollars property loss and intense suffering.

Hundreds have been driven from their homes.

The heaviest loss will be suffered by farmers through drowning of livestock and through inability to get into their fields to prepare crops due to the unseasonable cold, rainy weather. The damage was most severe along the Illinois river, where levees have given away, flooding thousands of acres of land.

Beardstown, Ill., whose population of 8000 is accustomed to floods for many years, has expressed the greatest high water loss in its history.

The levee protecting East Peoria also was threatened.

Lowlands along Indiana rivers were flooded with heavy loss to livestock and winter wheat.

CZAR DEBTS LIQUIDATION IS SETTLED

Genoa Conference Forces Soviet to Recognize Pre-War Obligations

IS GEORGE VICTORY

Preliminary to Recognition of Russia and European Peace

GENOA, April 15.—The allied and Russian delegates to the Genoa conference this afternoon reached a complete agreement on the liquidation of Russia's old debts.

The soviet delegates agreed to recognize as valid all of Russia's debts contracted previous to the war.

This is a victory for Premier Lloyd George, of Great Britain, who hopes to make successful conclusion of the debt transactions preliminary to recognition of Russia and finally an agreement whereby European nations would pledge themselves to refrain from attacking each other for a term of years.

A brief session this afternoon, attended by Premier Lloyd George of Great Britain, Senator Schanzer of Italy, Minister Jasper of Belgium, Louis Barthou of France and George Tchitcherin, resulted in the agreement regarding Russia's debts.

A formula of agreements was prepared by allied experts, with Russian cooperation, this morning and at a little round table gathering, with no Japanese or Roumanian delegates present, the Russian spokesman gave his consent to the pact.

The hands of the British premier guiding the conference toward this end was seen in the meetings between the allied delegates and the Russians at Lloyd George's villa.

Lloyd George hopes that these negotiations will lead to a limited agreement which will liquidate the debts the allies claim are due them from Russia, from which basis a resumption of relations could be effected. To achieve this end, however, the British chief must compromise between the attitude of Russia, who claim they should not be made to pay anything, and that of France, whose delegates claim the Russians should be made to pay in full all the obligations contracted by the czarist regime in addition to claims France has rolled up since then.

PROGRESSIVE CLUB APPROVES ACT OF CITY COUNCIL

Only Three Members Needed to Complete Charter Organization

Fifteen business men of Glendale who have enrolled as members of the Progressive Business Men's Association, enjoyed a luncheon at the chamber of commerce building Friday noon when the action taken by the city council in abandoning the proposed business tax and substituting for it an assessment of 25c against every light meter in the city was discussed. The association going on record as approving the council's action.

The sewer problem was also discussed tentatively and a committee will be appointed to take the question up with the city council.

There was also some talk about the possibility of a consolidation of Eagle Rock and Glendale but no official action was taken relative to the matter.

The receipt of the association's charter is expected next week. Some evening during the week a smoker will be held to celebrate the event but the noon luncheon will take place Friday as usual.

Twenty-two charter members have been enrolled and quite a waiting list of business men have applied for membership. C. G. McConnell, of the Builders' Hardware and Supply Co., is the president of the association and C. B. Sutton, Nash agent, its secretary.

Mrs. Henry J. Allen, wife of the governor of Kansas, and their daughter, Henrietta, are determined that the governor retire from public life and "get acquainted" with the family. Pressure is being exerted to have Governor Allen try for a third term, but if wife and daughter have their way he will go to their home at Wichita and be plain Henry J. Allen.

Your Newspaper's Service

By prompt action the Glendale Daily Press was able yesterday to save the situation of the disabled soldiers at Thornycroft, turned out into the streets with a day's notice by the order of Major Grant.

It was not an easy task. Government and army decisions are made after long discussion and conformation to plans that are far-reaching.

That these plans created a serious situation here for the boys did not enter into the discussion of the matter from the army point of view. If the army stopped to think of individual interests it would get nowhere.

However, there was a human side.

It was the duty of the local newspaper which had standing for honesty of its statements to bring that human side uppermost in the attention of the army officer responsible for the order.

No other agency could perform the duty. It required a scope of vision possible only in a newspaper office, to realize the serious situation to the men involved and to the good of the service as a whole to present the matter in its true perspective.

Relying upon the presentation of this exterior aspect of the action of the army, Major Grant allowed an extension of two weeks' time.

The Glendale Daily Press is glad that it was able to make the representation. Proud of the fact that it was effective. Whether it had succeeded or not, it would have made the fight—

For this is the duty of a real, live, community-building, aggressive for public good and public interest newspaper.

Had it gone to press with only the story of the sufferings of the boys involved it would have failed as a newspaper. More, it would have allowed an injustice to have been perpetrated. Each injustice of that character permitted increases the irritation upon which the radical mind feeds itself.

By standing guard to protect those within its community, newspapers do a duty that is without compensation, although never without recognition of those for whom it fights.

SPECIAL SERVICES FOR LEGION MEN

At 6 o'clock Sunday evening at the Pacific Avenue Methodist church, corner of West Harvard and Pacific avenue, the evening services will open with a teacup hour at which there will be vocal selections by Comrade Keaumoku Louis, famous Hawaiian concert baritone, accompanied by D. S. Hollingshead. Mrs. Donald Magill, recently from Washington, D. C. will give several humorous readings and several piano solos will be given by D. S. Hollingshead. Mrs. W. W. Warriner will render several vocal solos. After this delightful program, dainty refreshments will be served.

At 7:30 o'clock, Chaplain Preston will address the American Legion men on the subject, "Two Kinds of Warfare." Special music will be provided by the choir.

All ex-service men and their friends are invited to come to both services.

SOVIET MAY BE GIVEN STATUS

WASHINGTON, April 15.—Congress is being sounded out on its attitude towards American recognition of Russia.

Big business is doing the sounding. This has led to the belief in some quarters at the capitol that the United States government will not long delay recognition of the soviet regime if other nations take the lead. In fact, some members of congress think there is a possibility that the United States may take the initiative.

Discussing Russian recognition today, Senator Borah, Idaho, said it seemed unfortunate to him that this government has not already shown the way to other governments. He said that the initiator of the step will reap from it more prestige in Russia than those nations which accord recognition afterward.

MEASURE ON BALLOT

Without Cost to Taxpayers Would Finance State Veterans

Members of Glendale Post No. 127 American Legion have been invited by Chaplain Harley Preston of the post to attend a dinner at 6 p. m. tomorrow night and after the dinner will be entertained at a social hour until 7:30 p. m. when the entire body will attend church services at the Methodist church of which Chaplain Preston is pastor. The dinner will also be held in the church at Harvard boulevard and Pacific avenue.

A committee was appointed at the meeting of the Legion last night to give the proper publicity to the proposed $10,000,000 bond issue that is to be voted on at the next election. This bond issue will not cost the taxpayers anything and will provide land for the veterans of the world war. Every citizen of Glendale is urged to register at once in order to be eligible to vote on the proposition at the election.

The athletic committee of the Legion reported that plans have been completed for the organization of a legion baseball team and that practice will be held every Saturday afternoon on the baseball diamond of the Glendale Union High School. This team has hopes of winning the pennant in the Southern California Legion league and competing for the state title during the convention at Santa Barbara.

A verbal expression of thanks from the patients at Thornycroft was given the members of the sick and relief committee for their action in having the time in which they are to leave that institution extending to April 30.

After considerable discussion a motion was passed instructing the secretary of the post to wire to the Community Service Corporation that the legion endorses the plan to have Community Service for Glendale but that the organization will not assume any financial obligations for the securing of the service.

A committee was appointed at the meeting and instructed to wait on the board of high school trustees to ask permission for the legion and other patriotic organizations to plant trees and shrubbery on the new high school site in memory of the comrades that have "Gone West."

Announcement of a meeting of the ladies' auxiliary of the legion on Monday night was made. It was also announced that at this meeting several new members will be initiated. A plea was made that all women of Glendale who are eligible to membership in this organization affiliate as soon as possible.

The members of the post were reminded by the entertainment committee that the legion dance will be held on a Saturday night in the very near future and that it will be held in the auditorium of the chamber of commerce.

A committee to get behind the high school bonds and assist in securing the passage of the bonds was appointed last night and will start work at an earl ydate. The sick and relief committee last night sold tickets for several boxes of candy securing approximately $15 to be used in the work of relieving sickness and distress among former service men in Glendale. Other committee made very satisfactory reports.

POSTMASTER ASKS FOR YOUR OWN ADDRESS

Many persons and concerns when giving their addresses in advertisements in newspapers and other publications, or in their literature, stationery, etc., fail to show their street addresses, and as a consequence this important information does not appear on letters or other mail sent to them in response to their advertisements or correspondence.

Such omission causes much inconvenience and additional labor to the postal service and frequent delays in the delivery of mail. It is, therefore, suggested that advertisers and others include their street addresses in all advertisements, literature, stationery, etc., in order that persons or concerns writing to them may place a definite address on letters and other mail, thus facilitating handling and delivery thereof to the mutual advantage of the senders, the addressees and the postal service.

Gulick Gathers Bus Supporters in Glendale

The people of Glendale are responding to the request of C. D. Gulick, transportation manager of the city, for all those who are interested in this city's fight to obtain a municipal bus line and willing to work for the line, to send in their names. Mr. Gulick says people in all sections of the city are communicating with him either by letter or telephone. The names are being filed and work is being done to outline a new fight along entirely new lines to secure the bus line between Glendale and Los Angeles. Committees will be appointed for various duties and the people who have volunteered to assist in the work will function on these committees.

BOY SCOUTS TAKE FOURTH ANNUAL HIKE

Troop No. 2 Left Monday on Trip in Six Machines

Boy Scout troop No. 2 took its fourth annual hike this week, leaving Glendale Monday morning in six large machines. The boys were in charge of H. Benjamin Robison, assistant scoutmaster, and were taken to Camp Baldy by several of the parents, including Messrs. A. A. Barton, Torrey, Ambroch, H. Benjamin Robison and Mrs. Kalbaugh. Upon reaching the destination they found a beautiful stone cabin and Monday afternoon they hiked to Ice House canyon and declared it rightly named, for it was very cold there.

Tuesday proved to be their big day. All of the boys hiked to San Antonio canyon, where they got into deep snow. Fifteen of them went up to the Great Divide. Tuesday night they stayed in the cabin, by the glowjng fire, and told stories and sang several songs.

Mr. McCullough, manager of the camp, stated that he enjoyed the boy scout visits very much and was always glad to have them come up, and the boys are equally as glad to go as they always received such fine treatment.

On Wednesday all went to Bear canyon and about 11 o'clock it began to snow, the boys then hiking to San Antonio heights in the snow, where they were met by cars to take them home. Those who came after them included Messrs. Hatch, Gregg, Torrey and Ambroch.

Troop No. 2 feels quite fortunate in having been presented with a beautiful portable phonograph, one they can take on their hikes, and keep in their scout cabin. They are very grateful for this gift and wish to thank Mr. Webb heartily.

YOUNG FOLKS HIKE TO ROBERTS CAMP

A group of young people from Glendale enjoyed a 2-day hike this week to Robert's Camp in the Sierra Madre mountains. They left Wednesday and came back on Thursday evening.

Those in the party included Mr. Billiard, chaperone, the Misses Thelma Field, Norma Morris, Ruth Billiard, Margaret Howard, Pearl Wainwright, Dorothea Howard, Messrs. Kenyon Husler, Francis Moore, Bill Stuart, Charles Stuart, Raber Beman, Dan Richardson, Phillipi Acres.

In spite of the cloudy day the chaperone took advantage of the stream and went in swimming. Many narrow escapes were witnessed by the party, but all had a fine time.

THORNYCROFT IS VERY HAPPY

tirely and they will be allowed to remain.

Yesterday morning all was gloom at the nospital when it became generally known that an order had been received ordering all government patients to leave not later than noon today. The government wished to send the boys to the government hospital at Camp Kearny. They did not want to go because they said that there practically all liberty was taken from them. As one of them phrased it, "We are not criminals. All that we are guilty of is serving as soldiers and sailors during the war."

The suggestion that many of them would be sent to the hospital at the Soldiers' Home in Sawtelle was treated in the same manner. They claimed that patients there lose identity and are designated by numbers. It was also reported there were only two vacant beds in the Sawtelle hospital and more than 200 men awaiting admission.

Everyone at Thornycroft is happy today and the happiest is Mrs. Miller, who conducts the hospital, and does not refer to the former soldiers as "patients" but as "hte boys." She said today when told that the extension had been granted: "If the boys want to stay in Thornycroft I will help them as much as possible to remain. If they do not want to stay I want to help them find a place where they will be content.

"We feel that we can keep the largest majority of the boys happy and contented and get physical results."

Mrs. Miller was asked what she believed to be the cause for the sudden decision to cancel the contract with her hospital by the government. She said: "We do not know of any reason for the fight to close this hospital to government patients other than that we have tried to make the boys feel at home here. We have even carried this attempt so far as to loan money to some of them until their compensation is received. We have the hospital fixed up to resemble a home rather than an institution and I have been told that the patients in other contract and government hospitals are more dissatisfied because of this."

As an instance of this home feeling fostered among the patients at Thornycroft Mrs. Miller cited the case of one boy who was a patient at Sawtelle. This boy asked to be transferred to Thornycroft. Asked for his reason he said that he wanted to go to Thornycroft because they have "swell service there."

Mrs. Miller said that a report had been circulated, so she had been informed, in government circles that the efforts to make the hospital attractive to government patients was a part of a plan to sell the hospital and property. Mrs. Miller branded this rumor as preposterous. She said: "My property is not for sale. I would not sell it ta any price."

To prove this statement she told of a recent offer on the part of a Glendale doctor to purchase the institution on behalf of himself and several other physicians who wished to conduct an institution of their own. The offer offer of practically any price was refused.

Just what the government patients intend to do now that an extension of the time has been granted is not known. That they will put up a fight to remain in Thornycroft at least until a suitable hospital is built in the vicinity of Los Angeles seemed probable yesterday. They will not state at present just what they intend doing and are chary about giving their names with any information that is published regarding the fight to stay, alleging any opposition to the plans made for them might result in loss or reduction of compensation.

One of the most pitiable things of the whole affair was the auction sale held yesterday morning in the recreation room of the hospital, when patients sold to the highest bidder most of the furnishings of the room. Sold even the furniture and rugs that they had struggled to secure for their amusement "the boys." She said today when purchased by patients who are married and have places to use the furniture. All was bought with the understanding that in the event they were allowed to remain at Thornycroft the disabled men could secure the return of the articles by refunding the purchase price.

MADE A MISTAKE

Fashions for Americans

One of the interesting novelty cotton fabrics featured this season is used for the child's dress shown in the sketch. The background is a pale tan with stripes in black and orange. The trimming is inch-wide black wool fringe, wool balls, and a narrow crocheted wool girdle or belt. The dress is perfectly simple as to line and made out of the ordinary solely by its coloring and the unusual trimming. The fabric is rather heavy, so that the wool fringe is very smart on it.

Among the practical wash materials featured for children's dresses for the coming warm weather season is crinkled seersucker, known by several other names, according to the manufacturers who have placed the material on the market, but seersucker nevertheless. This fabric might be trimmed with wool fringe or wool embroidery with very good effect, as it is of good body, and comes in all sorts of interesting colors and color combinations.

Plain brown chambray is used to make some smart little frocks, trimmed in ruffles of organdy in contrasting color, and often with wool embroidery matching the ruffles. Chambray in various colors is combined with narrow striped gingham with very good effect.

A dainty party dress for a very small girl is fashioned of white and pale blue voile. The cut of the dress is interesting, in that two perfectly straight sections are used, pintucked at the top to form a sort of yoke, banded all around with the blue voile (the dress proper is in white), and with fagoting holding the two panels together on each side from skirt hem to arm's eye. The dress is caught on the shoulders with bows of blue ribbon, so that a wide neck line is effected.

Wool Fringe Trims This Cotton Fabric Frock

Style changes or new ideas for undergarments are so comparatively few that when a novelty is discovered it is certain to attract attention. The little gown shown in the sketch offers an idea that is quite new and distinctly unusual. It is made of a colored crepe de chine—pale blue, pink, and orchid are the colors most used—and trimmed with motifs of flowered cretonne daintily appliqued on. The edge of the neck, armholes, and skirt of the gown are picoted, a little patch pocket bears a cretonne motif, and a narrow two-tone ribbon belt finishes the garment. Entire sets, consisting of gown, chemise, and bloomers, are shown decorated with the cretonne motifs, and very dainty they are.

Both cotton and silk undergarments of white often carry a touch of color in the hem and the embroidery that trims them. Some lovely fine sateen undergarments recently seen, developed in white, were finished with colored self-fabric hems and touches of embroidery. Plain batiste or checked dimity undergarments were similarly finished, plain organdy or voile in one of the popular pastel shades being used for the hems.

Incidentially, fine sateen, either in plain or self-triped weave, is an excellent fabirc choice for warm weather undergarments. It wears well, has the silky sheen and appearance in a general way that real silk has, and, of course, is much cheaper.

Another practical undergarment fabric is fine sheer cotton crepe. This, also, is being extensively used and is available in such pretty colorings, patterns, etc., that great variety is possible. This crepe is used effectively for warm weather negligees as well as undergarments, with pipings and bindings in plain color cotton or silk fabric, or of ribbon.

VETERANS' WELFARE BOND ACT

Following immediately upon the receipt of news that the supreme court of the state had cleared the legal obstructions from the path of the veterans' bond issue that will appear on the ballot in November, Campaign Director Buron R. Fitts of Los Angeles was in communication last night with Joe Wilson, Adjutant of the local post, American Legion, and prominent ex-service men of this city, stating that a spirited campaign will be waged in every part of the state, in which the American Legion and other veterans' organizations will participate.

"This is a lift, not a gift," Mr. Fitts said. "This bond issue is not to provide a bonus. It is a straight loan to the man or woman who served in the world war or in past wars. It enables the veteran to borrow money from the state at a nominal rate of interest and over a long term of deferred payments, with which he will buy a farm or a home.

"The ten-million-dollar bond issue upon which the people will vote is to be a revolving fund that comes back to the state as fast as the ex-service men make their payments. The state is at all times secured in the loan by the real estate. The taxpayers will not pay out or lose one penny. In return the state will receive an impetus in home building and in the creation of new farm property that will greatly increase the taxable income of California, besides providing an opportunity for the veteran to own a home and raise a family in peace and plenty."

The bond campaign is to be conducted by a committee of which Mr. Fitts is chairman, the others being the state commander of the American Legion, John R. Quin of Delano, Walter K. Tuller, Los Angeles, H. V. Lay of Yreka and John U. Calkins of Oakland.

The committee yesterday issued the following statement:

CREATE VETERAN BOARD

Under the provisions of the California Veterans' Welfare Act, the Veterans' Welfare Board is created, consisting of five members, four of whom must be ex-service people. The function of this Board is to carry out the terms and provisions of the Veterans' legislation in California, and expend moneys authorized by the State Legislature to be expended in behalf of ex-service people within this state. These expenditures are safeguarded by requiring the approval of the State Board of Control on Controller's warrants drawn for that purpose.

Any veteran of any American war, a bona fide resident of California at the time he entered service, is eligible under the terms and provisions of Veterans' Welfare Acts. Preference is given, however, to veterans who are disabled and are now drawing compensation.

The two principal features of this veteran legislation and which are to be covered by the ten million dollar bond issue, are the Home Aid and the Land Aid provisions.

Under the terms of the Veterans' Farm and Home Purchase Act, any qualified veteran desiring to secure a home or farm, may make his selection and submit the same to the Veterans' Welfare Board for consideration. The banker in the community where the site is chosen, the Inheritance Tax Appraiser, and at least two members of the Veterans' Welfare Board. If the farm does not exceed $7500 in value, or the home does not exceed $5000 in value, as the case may be, the Veterans' Welfare Board may then purchase the farm or home in behalf of the state for the appraised valuation.

It will then resell the farm or home to the veteran applicant at a price not to exceed the actual cost to the State (cannot exceed $7500 in case of a farm and $5000 in case of a home), and adding to this resale price the expenses of appraisement, escrow charges, cost of certificate of title, and all other necessary incidental expenses. The resale by the State to the veteran is made on terms agreed to between the Veterans' Welfare Board and the veteran. It is provided, however, in the Act, that the applicant veteran must make an initial payment to the State of at least five per cent in the case of a home, and ten per cent in the case of a farm, the balance due to be paid by the veteran in easy installments covering a period not to exceed forty years and bearing interest at the rate of five per cent on deferred payments. It is further provided that the veteran must take up his actual residence upon the property within six months after purchase by the Board.

Under the Veterans' Land Settlement Act, as passed by the State Legislature, the Veterans' Welfare Board is also authorized to purchase tracts of land for subdivision into farms, farm laborers' allotments, and town sites, providing for irrigation, roads, schools and churches, for settlement purposes. Under the terms of this Act the resale to the veteran must be made at actual cost to the State, not exceeding $15,000 in case of a farm, and $1000 in the case of a farm laborers' allotment; also it is likewise provided by this Act that preference must be given to federal agricultural trainees, who are required, as is likewise required of all other applicants, to move on the farm or allotment within six months. The State may further cultivate the land, render it productive and erect cottages thereon for the veterans until the land is self-supporting, the cost to be added to the purchase price of the land and paid by the veteran.

It is further provided under the provisions of this Act that the Veterans' Welfare Board may loan a sum not to exceed $3000 to the veteran applicant for the purpose of purchasing livestock and farm equipment, and take a mortgage or other security therefor.

It is for the purpose of carrying out the provisions of these two beneficial veteran welfare acts that the State Legislature unanimously authorized the California Veterans' Ten Million Dollar Bond (issue) Act. These bonds are to mature not later than forty-five years from the date of issuance, and will bear interest at a rate to be determined by the Veterans' Welfare Finance Committee, but in no case exceeding six per cent per annum. It is further provided in the Act authorizing the issuance of these bonds that they are to be sold in the open market.

Under the provisions of the Acts, constituting the Veterans' Welfare legislation, the veteran is required to pay five per cent interest, and the Veterans' Welfare Board must pay the State four per cent interest. It was the intention of the Legislature in providing for this difference that the cost of administration of the Veterans' Welfare Board would in reality be paid by the veteran himself, so as not to constitute a charge upon the taxpayers of the state.

California veterans feel that this legislation is the most progressive and constructive of any legislation within the Nation. This legislation will tend to benefit the State of California to a greater extent than the individual veteran is benefitted. Every provision of the legislation tends to create rather than to destroy. The voters of this great state, in passing the Ten Million Dollar Bond (issue) Act, would help in placing ex-service men within this state in homes or upon farms.

It became necessary for several European nations, in order to stop the tide of Bolshevism oversweeping them, to provide legislation for all their citizens similar to California's legislation for ex-service men and women. It was felt by the governing bodies of those nations that a citizen in a home or on a piece of farm land is a citizen rooted to the ground, and is, therefore, less likely to turn to Bolshevism and kindred lines of radicalism.

The provisions of these acts provide for beneficial assistance and not gifts. In no single phase of any part of that legislation can added expense result to the taxpayers of the State of California. The passage of the Veterans' Ten Million Dollar Bond (issue) Act will not in the slightest affect taxation—will not increase the present rate of taxation a cent. It is estimated by experts that the only cost to the people of this state in passing the California Veterans' Bond Act is the actual cost of printing the words "For the Veterans' Welfare Bond Act of 1921!" upon the ballot to be used by the voters in November.

Ex-service men and women are confident in this state that the voters of California will provide for them the opportunity of securing a home or a piece of farm land. They are confident that the financial losses suffered by them while in the service of the Nation during war will be rehabilitated by the people of this state at the next general election in November.

AUTOMOBILE TIRE COMPANY IS A PIONEER

Started in Los Angeles a Dozen Years Ago, Survives Competitors

The Automobile Tire company of Los Angeles, which has a branch store at 211 South Brand boulevard, are pioneers in the automobile tire business. There are very few retail stores which started business in Los Angeles at the same time the Automobile Tire company did, which was about 12 years ago, that are still in business in that city.

H. A. Demarest, president and general manager, has been connected with the tire industry for over twenty years and there is not a more capable or better informed tire man on the west coast. He is one of the most careful and shrewdest of tire buyers.

This company was originally connected with the Automobile Tire company of New York city, which had branches all over the United States, and Mr. Demarest was western sales manager. About 12 years ago he took over the chain of stores west of the Rockies and established a general store at Los Angeles.

When the tire business began to be sort of unstabilized, such as all business has been for the last couple of years, Mr. Demarest discontinued some of the branches in order to not be caught with a large stock of tires on hand, but now that the tire business is coming back to its normal conditions the Automobile Tire company is again spreading out, and E. W. Demarest, field manager, is at present establishing a new store in Fresno.

The branch store at 211 South Brand boulevard, Glendale, has been established since last September and has enjoyed an increase in business every month. Despite the unfavorable weather conditions for enjoyable automobiling, R. B. Tapp, branch manager, reports a very good sales average.

GLENDALE HEIGHTS STAGES NOVEL EASTER SALE

"Bring the Kiddies and Your Lunch" Says Company

A big Easter sale of lots in Glendale Heights, "The Wonder Tract" which is being sold out so rapidly, will be held Sunday. Two units of this tract have already been sold out and the sale that will be held tomorrow will be the pre-opening sale on Unit No. 3. This tract is located on the west side of Adams street, which it is claimed will soon become a new "short cut" to Los Angeles.

During Sunday only 10 lots facing on Adams street will be sold for $1000 on terms of 10 per cent down and small monthly payments. It is the belief of the subdividers of this tract that the southeast section of Glendale has already started on an era of progress that will not end until present prices of property in that section have doubled. There is no doubting the fact that that particular section is on the uphill, and just where the advance will end cannot be seen at this time.

Concerning the opening sale the company says: "Come out and see this new wonderful, modestly restricted residential district. Bring the kiddies and your lunch and let them spend the day rolling eggs on the green, grassy slopes of Glendale Heights. Come out and catch the inspiration of this new movement. 'A look means a lot.'"

KENNY MUSIC CO. HAS STARTLING WINDOW

Book Projects Through Plate Glass Which Is Apparently Wrecked

The "broken" window at the Kenny Music shop, 203 North Brand boulevard, is creating a great deal of discussion among those who have passed this business establishment during the past few days. The fake that is being pulled off in connection with this window feature is almost realistic as the real thing. It was devised to represent a window through which a book had been thrown, and it looks for all the world as though the large plate glass window had been wrecked.

The fact of the matter is, however, that the book has been cut in two pieces, one being glued to the outside and the other to the inside of the window. Chalk marks represent the cracks radiating from the fracture, so that the entire feature is proving actually deceptive to hundreds of people.

MAXWELL ATTRACT ATTENTION IN ENGLAND

Adopted as the Standard Chassis Throughout Australasia and Spain

The favorable comment and attention accorded Maxwell vehicles in foreign lands continue to be in evidence, according to Lyman P. Clark of the Glendale Motor Car Co., local Maxwell dealers.

Not long ago "The Car," an English magazine of motoring, praised the good Maxwell to the skies in comparison with a British home product of corresponding power and higher price.

Then it was revealed that the Maxwell had been adopted as the standard chassis for fire hose-cart service throughout all Australasia.

In Spain the Maxwell one and one-half ton truck was designated for the use of the colonial army. Such excellent service was rendered that the minister of war has recommended that the domestic military forces be equipped with Maxwell trucks.

Now in England have Maxwells again scored, as evidenced in an article written for "The Car" by Lord Garvagh.

Lord Garvagh is a Maxwell owner, and he lives on his estate 50 miles from the nearest garage. L. P. Clark is of the opinion that each fact respectively proclaims his lordship's good judgment and the dependability of his car.

In speaking of his good Maxwell, Lord Garvagh writes: "Sometimes we go for tours in the mountains, and no matter what strange and wierd places we tackle the good Maxwell is always equal to them. The car has covered about 8000 miles and it runs distinctly better now than when new. The engine has never been decarbonized nor have the valves been touched."

'WASHER' WILSON HAS TRAINLOAD COMING

Orders Flock of Machines to Meet the Local Demand

"Washer Wilson," who claims to be the largest exclusive washing machine dealer in the world, will soon receive a complete trainload of washing machines from the east, at his main plant in Los Angeles. This will be one of the largest shipments of washing machines on record.

From Los Angeles Mr. Wilson will consign a number of the cars to his different branches in Southern California, one or more of which will make its way to Glendale. This mammoth shipment will include many of the leading makes of machines, everyone of which is guaranteed to do the very best of work or money refunded. "Washer Wilson" has conducted a "satisfaction or no pay" business ever since he started. He was the first man in California to take up the electric washing machine. Other washing machine men told him that he was crazy to go into the electric washer game, that the people would not pay so much for a washing machine, and a lot of other "valuable" advice, but notwithstanding these words of wisdom he went righ ahead until now he does more business in the washer line than any other man on earth.

The Barton Bedtime Stories

WAS THE HEADLESS HUNTER BIRD OR BUG?

By JOHN BARTON

(Copyright, 1921, by Associated Newspapers)

I'd like to tell all the things those wild geese did at Dr. Muskrat's Pond while they were waiting for sunset and star-time. But it would be like trying to tell what you saw at a three-ring circus with one pair of eyes. After a while you forget what you did see and what you only heard about, because it happened while your head was turned.

The big birds were always soaring into the air to show off their fine flying, or to wash off for a meal, since they didn't want to eat all the minnows and all the snails and all the tadpoles in the doctor's private fishing ground. Or, they'd swoop down and begin to fence with each other, darting their supple necks and clashing their hard beaks. Or they'd box, and you'd hear the click of the spurs they wear at the bend of their strong wings. (You remember even the red dog was afraid of those.) Oh, the Gray Ganders were a warlike flock, like the knights of olden times who held tournaments to keep in practice for fighting.

Not that they had many enemies. They were so very big and so very swift and so very powerful few could attack them. But now—

"It's a very serious problem," Hotspur, the cleverest and bravest of their leaders, told the wise paddle-paw. "If your stars can't help us nothing can. For ages past our motto has been 'The higher you fly the safer you are.' But there's a new creature in the air who can fly farther and faster and higher than we can."

"Hm, hm. That sounds bad—very bad. Is he eagle or owl?"

"Neither one. He's like no bird who ever flew. He has no feathers; he's as hard and shiny and smooth as a dragon-fly."

"So? How about his voice?"

"He never speaks. He just keeps up a terrible buzzing, and the strange part is he doesn't do it with his wings, like a proper bug. He has two pairs, all right enough, but he doesn't wave them. He can hold them stiff and soar right through a wind which sets us flapping."

"Maybe he makes it with his mouth."

"Ah, that's the most terrible thing of all. He hasn't one! Not a sign of a place to wear one. Nothing but a big, bright eye hunched down between his shoulders. The Headless Hunter is what we call him."

"It's a very serious problem," Hotspur, the cleverest and bravest of their leaders, told the wise old paddle-paw.

Dr. Muskrat gnawed his whiskers. "He sounds like a bug, all the same. Do you imagine he was hatched in the moon, maybe, or some such outlandish place as that?"

(You've surely guessed that "he" was hatched in a man's brain. For the anxious bird was doing his best to describe an airplane.)

NEXT STORY—DR. MUSKRAT BELIEVES THE IMPOSSIBLE.

MONUMENT WORKS IS NEW PLANT

The Glendale Monument Works, 1727 South Brand boulevard, is one of the latest business establishments to make its appearance in Glendale. The rapid growth of Glendale has created a need for an establishment of this character.

Of his concern the proprietor, C. H. Ambrosch, says:

"In locating here we are placing out 29 years of experience at the disposal of the people of Glendale. This experience has touched on every branch of the monument business, and has given us an insight into the most efficient methods of the construction of monumental work, which enables us to maintain efficient low cost production and, with the elimination of all unnecessary overhead expenses, can quote the very lowest prices.

"Our policy will be to serve our customers as we would be served—that is, to apply the Golden Rule to every transaction. To never build a monument that is not a masterpiece of grace and durability is our aim."

GUTHRIE'S NEW TRACT DRAWS ATTENTION

10th Street Blvd. Offering Regarded as Unusual Subdivision

The Tenth Street Boulevard tract, which is being put on the market by Charles B. Guthrie, 103 1-2 South Brand boulevard, is just now receiving an unusual amount of attention on the part of the wise realty buyers of the valley and surrounding country. The real worth of this tract is now being realized and for this reason there is a general leaning toward this very unusual real estate subdivision. It is without doubt one of the finest tracts ever offered to the buying public. It embodies many charms that are to be found nowhere else in the country, and it is the discriminating buyer who has the power to look into the future who is taking advantage of the opportunity to snap up these valuable homesites.

Among the out-of-town purchasers of lots in this tract are Mrs. L. B. Purviance of Hollywood, Mrs. Maude Stewart and George W. Smith, both of Pomona. Mrs. Stewart and Mr. Smith have purchased three lots and intend to build two two-story homes on each of thes outside lots, leaving the lot between the two houses for parking and beautifying.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Rodenbeck of Yakima, Wash., while sojourning in Glendale a short time ago, purchased two lots on Raymond avenue in this tract. It is their intention to return to Glendale in the fall and make their permanent home here.

BEE ROCK AND GRIFFITH PARK WORTH WHILE

Threatening Weather Indications Behooves Those Who Ride to Be Careful and Stay Close to Home Unless Sky Smiles Tomorrow

From present indications Sunday will not be the finest kind of a day for an all-day trip. During the past few weeks the weather has been anything but conducive to motoring—in fact, the entire winter has been altogether unnatural for Southern California. It has been long and hard and although spring has been with us for quite a while the cold weather seems very reluctant to "let go." However, there is sure to come a time when the summer sun will get the upper hand and then Southern California will be real again.

However, there are many days in which the hours from 10 to 4 are warm enough for the family picnic or the community gathering, or for the outdoor entertainment of some eastern friends. For occasions of this kind there are a number of very delightful little nooks and corners where the small party or the large gathering may gather and enjoy one of those "close to nature" times. Some of these picnic grounds are well known to the motorists of Southern California, and especially to those who make it a habit to get out of the beaten path over Sunday. But there are doubtless many car owners residing and visiting in this section who will welcome a little information concerning the little out-of-the-way picnic grounds of this section.

For the benefit of these motorists the Glendale Press is offering the following picnic ground suggestions:

The first is that old standby—Bee Rock park. This picnic ground is located in the wonderful Griffith Park, which is owned by Los Angeles and is one of the largest municipal parks in the country. For years and years Bee Rock park has extended its arms to the motorists of Southern California and during those years thousands of automobile parties have enjoyed the wonderful setting of this picnic ground. There are two sections to Bee Rock park. Both of these sections are equipped with good concrete stoves with grates. The management of the park furnishes all the wood that is needed for these stoves. Nothing tastes so good as a "feed" built out in the open. The rear section of the covering of these stoves is equipped for coffee making, while the front is in the form of a grate where the weiners may be roasted or the steak may be broiled to a delicious brown, there being just enough of the smoky flavor to make it taste "just like outdoors." The motorist who has ever enjoyed a steak done in this way will know just what it means. The repast may be spread on one of the long tables that are set beneath the widespreading branches of the mammoth wild oaks.

The picnic grounds are not the only attractions of this park, for there is a zoo in connection. While interesting to the grown-ups this will appeal especially to the little ones, for there are deer, buffalo, camel, bears, birds of all kinds and other things that will make this collection a pleasure.

Then close to the picnic grounds is the municipal golf course, which is covered with enthusiastic golfers during every sunshiny hour of every holiday—and some that are not so bright and cheerful. This golf course has a general north and south direction, with the various holes and driving tees extending up into the little coves or canyons. Taken all in all this is one of the most delightful golf courses in Southern California. This results for it being practically all nature-made. Of course, all of the improvements were done by workmen, but the course in general was "laid out" by an unseen hand.

The hills of Griffith Park are unusually delightful during this time of the year. The rains have covered them with a coating of green. A few hours in this park will put a fellow back on his feet and prepare him for the hurry of the coming week.

To reach Bee Rock Park go south on Central from the intersection of Broadway and Central to Los Feliz road, and west along this highway, over the Southern Pacific tracks, across the Los Angeles river to the entrance of the park. Turn right at the park entrance, and follow the upper (main traveled) road into the park.

Brookside Park is another wonderful, secluded picnic grounds where the motorist may take his market basket full of "grub" and build one of the most wonderful "feeds" imaginable. This park also has a number of wood stoves, for which wood is furnished. In addition it has several gas plates, where the picnicer may insert 10 cents and secure sufficient gas to cook the largest kind of a picnic meal. This feature will be appealing to the person who does not like wood-fire making. This surely is picnicing with all the comforts of home.

In addition to embodying the outdoor spirit this park has a number of features that will appeal to everyone. For instance, there is a beautiful swimming pool where young and old may "plunge" to their heart's content. All it requires is a bathing suit and ten cents. There is also a wading pool warm days this feature is covered with happy, paddling humanity, a scene that is worth going miles to see. Other features for the children are the swings, the merry-go-round, teeters, etc. A special effort has been made to provide enjoyment features for the little ones. Some tables at this park are located down close to the stoves and also at different points on the side of the hill, beneath oak trees. Another hillside feature is the rustic band pavilion. This is an open air feature where during Sundays and holidays throughout the summer free band concerts are held. From the pavilion upward along the side of the hills are seats for several hundred people.

In connection with this park is an excellent regulation baseball grounds, where semi-professional baseball is played on holidays and sometimes on Sundays. This park is probably the leading municipal park of Pasadena. It is sometimes advisable, if the party is to be a large one and the picnic is to be held on a holiday during the height of the summer, to reserve a table through the Park Commission of Pasadena. This is an ideal park and is very easy of access.

To reach Brookside leave Glendale via East Colorado. Continue on this highway through Eagle Rock and across the mammoth Colorado street bridge. When the opposite side o fthe bridge has been reached, turn left and go to the first street, when turn left again and head down the hill. While going down the hill turn right at the first street and this will take the motorist directly into the park. No admission fee is charged at either of these parks.

PARAMOUNT SHOW AT T. D. & L. THEATRE

"Is Matrimony a Failure" to Be Followed by "The Cradle"

The question isn't answered in the new Paramount special comedy of that name, "Is Matrimony a Failure?" which was shown at the T. D. & L. theatre last night, but it is discussed in some of the most delightful laugh-provoking episodes that have been seen for some time.

The successful stage play, "The Open Door," by Oscar Blumenthal and Gustav Kadelburg, was the basis for the picture, which was adapted to the screen by Walter Woods and filmed under the direction of James Cruze.

T. Roy Barnes heads the excellent cast, which includes some of the most prominent present day screen favorites, such as Lila Lee, Lois Wilson, Walter Hiers, ZaSu Pitts, Arthur Hoyt, Lillian Leighton, Tully Marchall, Adolphe Menjou and Sylvia Ashton.

Presenting a big and vitally important problem in a manner which makes it at once as entertaining as it is instructive, is the accomplishment of the Paramount picture "The Cradle," Ethel Clayton's latest starring creation, which comes to the T. D. & L. theatre tomorrow.

Here, woven into a thrilling and dramatic story, is the problem facing every married man and woman who, tiring of the marriage tie, seek to find a solution of their troubles in divorce. But with this move they find that no matter what their will may be, there is a power higher than divorce, one which sooner or later will bring the erring couple together again. Just what this power is forms the theme of the picture and its nature is strikingly divulged as the story unfolds. Of its truth and importance it is surely to be conceded that none will be found to deny it.

Eugene Brieux, author of the internationally - famous "Damaged Goods," wrote the play from which this picture was adapted. Paul Powell directed, and a popular cast includes Charles Meredith, Anna Lehr and the child wonder, Mary Jane Irving.

ACCIDENT POLICY OF AUTO CLUB WINS

New Service Makes Distinct Hit With Many of Its Members

The new service now being offered to members of the Automobile Club of Southren California in the form of personal accident policies has met with unexpected success.

This service is the direct result of numerous requests from members of the organization desiring protection against personal injuries or death sustained through the operation of privately owned vehicles.

Personal accident policies issued by the club nto only protect the assured against the usual hazards contained in the average policy, but in the event that the assured is injured or killed ni a privately owned conveyance the indemnity is doubled.

The trip form of policy by which a member may protect himself and family while on short trips has been received with unusual interest.

MAGIC OF NEWNESS LIES IN THE TOP

De Luxe Auto Top Co. Has Stock of the Right Appearance

There are few things that improve the appearance of the automobile like a brand new top. The top either makes or breaks the appearance of the machine, and the fellow who takes pride in maintaining a good looking car cannot afford to let his top run down. If the top looks shabby it should be replaced by a new one.

"Now is the best time of the year to have the top renewed," said H. Du Bois of the Glendale De Luxe Auto Top company, 120 South Maryland. "The shabby top should be replaced with a new covering in preparation for the summer season. Th cear owner should not wait to make a "rush order" of his top covering work. If it is brought to us now we can give the car our very best attention and the price will be a revelation to the average owner of the motor car."

FLOOR RADIATOR NEW CAR COMFORT

A comfortable addition to a passenger automobile is the placement of an ordinary floor radiator, such as is used in hot-air systems of house-heating, whereby operators are assured of protection against cold. Cut a hole through the slanting part of the front board and set in an adjustable vane type of radiator, with the ribbed foot control knob, which allows as little or as much heat as desired to come through.

"I am headed for the mechanic who has never failed to make good on my auto repairing"

I always remember the old saying:

"A STITCH IN TIME SAVES NINE"

Well, it applies to your auto as much as anything you possess. A railroad locomotive is given frequent inspections, oiled thoroughly and has a low upkeep cost. The average truck and automobile owner lets his machine run till it quits, without service. That's the most expensive thing you can do. The cars with the low upkeep costs are those that are taken to a good garage once a month for general inspection.

You will be surprised to find how low a monthly inspection Cost is.

And you will be much surprised at the improved running condition. Now is the time to send your car to our shop in preparation for the spring days just ahead.

WATCH YOUR FOOT AT GRADE CROSSING

When a motorist is placed in a dangerous position, such as crossing the highway or railroad crossing, it is vitally important that the opening of the throttle is not made too suddenly. If the accelerator pedal is pressed too quickly the engine sometimes stalls. This is because the air valve yields readily to the increased suction, giving a sudden rush of air before the spray nozzle can respond with enough gasoline.

HOW TO BREAK RADIATOR LOCK

When refilling an empty radiator with water, open the petcock at the bottom of the radiator or the one located at the water pump. Pour water into the cooling system until it runs freely from the open petcock. Close the cock and proceed with the filling. This plan eliminates the possible chance of an air lock in the system.

GLENDALE WELDING WORKS IS NEW INDUSTRY

Opens at 616 East Wilson Avenue, Specializes in Brazing

There's a new industry in Glendale—the Glendale Welding and Radiator Works, 616 East Wilson avenue. This new industry will specialize in welding and brazing of all kinds, including castings, automobile frames, radiator repairing and rebuilding.

William L. Heyn and Joseph A. Dunklin, proprietors of this establishment, have been in the welding and radiator business for the past few years and know the work thoroughly. They are starting their business on a "satisfaction or no pay" basis, and they intend to live up to this in every transaction. Prompt service and reasonable charges are two points of the method of this concern that should not be overlooked.

The proprietors of this establishment are Glendale boosters and in addition to working for the upbuilding of their shop they are doing everything they can to assist in the progress of the city as a whole.

AUTO KINKS OF TRAVEL JINX

Things That May Happen and How to Handle Them

Auto troubles are sure to arise in connection with the best regulated machine. Little things are bound to get out of order, for the average motorist has other things to do except tinker around the machine. When the various little perplexing problems arise a little study of the particular trouble will enable the car owner to soon make his own repairs, or to fix things up until an efficient garage man can be reached.

The following auto kinks may be the solution to the trouble that is proving bothersome at this time:

Back-firing in the carburetor is frequently caused by a lean mixture, which is slow burning.

After the rear tires have worn considerably interchange with the front tires. It is also good to reverse sides.

The cost of full-coverage insurance for one year on a high-grade passenger automobile would equal the value of an ordinary small car.

The man who gets the most out of a gallon of gasoline is one who keeps every part of his car properly adjusted and in perfect working order at all times.

TEST YOUR GEARS FOR BROKEN LIPS

A simple test for wear in the transmission, or broken teeth of the gears, is to drive the car slowly for a short distance. In each speed, including reverse. Badly-worn gears or broken teeth will cause the gear shift lever to vibrate, and can be felt by the driver by placing his hand on the lever while the car is in motion.

RAT CENSUS

A rat census of Chicago places the number of rodents there at 4,000,000, each doing $2 per year damage.

GLENDALE WASH RACK IS READY FOR WORK

Little Job of Cleaning for Easter Might Be Done Right Now

"Why do you send your soiled suit of clothes to the cleaners?" asks the proprietor of the Glendale wash rack, 109 East Wilson avenue, at Brand boulevard. Then they come back with the answer, "Because you know they can do a much better job than you can do yourself—because they do not merely take off the top layer of dirt. They clean it and send it back to you like new.

"That is just the thing we are doing for the motorists of Glendale. We take cars that are covered with grease, dust and grime and in a little while change their entire appearance, and we send them back to the owners in the cleanest possible condition. It is economy to send the soiled suit to the cleaner, and just as surely it is economy to send your car to us, which is twenty times as valuable as your suit.

"All of our work is guaranteed and our prices are as reasonable as first class work permits. We make a specialty of simonizing, washing, greasing, spraying motors, vulcanizing and repairing, storage and parking."

GARAGE IS LIKE DOCTOR'S OFFICE

So Says Ferg at Standard Corner Kenwood and Broadway

A garage is like a doctor's office—it is the place where wrecks are taken to be put in running order again. If the doctor knows his business it is not long before the wreck is out on the down and out class and is again on the road purring along as nicely as before.

"We delight in having chronic automobile cases brought to us," said "Ferg" of the Standard garage, corner Kenwood and Broadway this morning, "The harder the cases the better they suit us. We claim to know our business, which is to repair automobiles, and we believe that the continued patronage of the motorists of Glendale prove that we are not novices at this automobile repair game. We seldom lose a customer. This is what encourages us, for it is indeed seldom that a person goes back to a mechanic who has not done satisfactory work.

"We do not claim to be the only good mechanics in Glendale, but we do believe that we are as good as the best. Conscientious work and courteous treatment, coupled with absolute and guaranteed results, are sure to bring "repeats."

FIRE IN FOREST IS SUMMER MENACE

Preservation of Timber Rests on Automobile Parties in Woodland

With the coming of summer will also come an increased danger of forest fires. It should be the aim of everyone who loves the forests and who in any way is fond of the outdoor life and camping to do everything possible to prevent fires that may destroy the playgrounds of the country.

Evidence that many of the disastrous forest fires raging throughout Southern California recently have been started by careless autoists has been presented to officials of the Automobile Club of Southern California, according to a report just issued.

It is shown in a statement made by R. H. Charlton, Forest Supervisor, following the receipt of letters from L. E. Fairchild, purchasing agent of the Los Angeles Examiner, that motorists who throw lighted cigars, cigarettes and smoldering pipe ashes out of their autos are responsible for some very bad fires.

The Automobile Club has been called upon to warn all autoists against the practice of throwing any ignited material out of their cars to the side of the road.

MIDDLE AGE OF BATTERY IS CERTAIN

Mr. Kuhn of Cizek Autolectric Co. Describes Its Symptoms

"Middle life creeps on the storage battery just the same as it creeps on a man," said Mr. Kuhns of the Cizek Auto Electric company, corner Colorado and Brand. "For some it is earlier or later than others. Every motorist knows, of course, that the battery is going to wear out some time, for it is an electro-chemical device and not mechanical, like the generator of an engine.

"Constant and regular care does a great deal to delay this middle life, but it's bound to come sooner or later. Your battery has run a pretty long course and worked mighty hard during the second period of its life—vigorour maturity. The weaker parts in it are beginning to wear out, but there is still enough life in it as a whole to make repairs worth while. In this period of the battery's life, as in the parallel period of a man's life, the doctor plays his part. If, at the first sings of weakness, the repairs are made, the odds are a hundred to one that you will get several months more service out of your battery. If you don't have it repaired, general breakdown of the battery occurs.

"It is extremely important, therefore, for the health of your battery, especially during its middle age, that you keep regularly in touch with the service station, for the expert in charge there can instantly detect and find any weakening in the battery and is able to prevent weakness in one member of the battery from destroying the whole of it."

PROMPTNESS IS SERVICE POLICY

So J. & K. Garage Is Built and Equipped to Hit the Ball

"Promptness is the policy of the J. & K. Garage, 1004-6 South Brand boulevard," said Mr. Jellison, manager of that garage, this morning. "Our place of business is equipped with all the machinery necessary for making speedy repairs and overhauling jobs. In addition to this we employ as fine mechanics as are to be found in Glendale, which, we realize, is saying a good deal. When you bring your car in our garage you do not have to wait forever, to have it repaired. Our prices are right, too."

The J. & K. Garage hold the exclusive agency in Glendale for the Victor and Savage tires. It claims to have the most complete rim service in this city. It can duplicate any rim in short order.

THINGS IT WILL PAY TO REMEMBER

Never use stiff grease for gears.

Examine generator brushes occasionally for wear.

A lean mixture in the carburetor will reduce carbon deposits.

Chronic overheating may be traced to sediment in the radiator.

Never leave the car parked at night without the lights burning.

The first duty of a motorist is to have his car under control at all times.

Running a car on a cheap grade of gasoline is by no means a point of economy.

This is the time of the year to renew the rubber connections of the cooling system.

To keep a car in condition to stand real hard usage is more a question of common sense than a gift.

When storing away a spare tube in the car, sprinkle a little talcum powder between the layers and around the inside of the bag.

A few drops of kerosene on the dirty interrupter points in the magneto will remedy the trouble of poor action; and restore the parts to good working order.

Brakes should be able to hold the car, instead of forcing the wheels up against the curb. This practice causes a strain on the fabric and weakens the tire.

A perforated metal ring to be screwed on the end of a hose has been invented for washing automobiles without injuring the varnish. Sponges are fastened over the perforations.

WAR'S AFTERMATH

POUNDING CAR IS HEADING FOR JUNK PILE SURE

Time Off in S. and G. Automobile Service Will Stop It

"Every time you go for a spin, with every turn of the wheels, there is a pulling and a pounding at a hundred different parts of your machine," said the manager of the S & G. Auto Service, 612 East Broadway, this morning, "and it is only the machine that is adjusted properly that stands up. The various parts of the car must be looked after regularly or some part of the car is very liable to give way just when it is most needed.

"In our modern, up-to-date garage and service station, we have every facility and all necessary equipment for the proper care of the automobile. WONDER PICTURES OF PARK SHOWN

The pictures of Zion National park as shown at an entertainment given Friday evening at the Congregational church by girls of the Sunday school class of Mrs. Blake Franklin were almost unbelievably gorgeous in their coloring, and yet Charles Guthrie, who has visited the park and who was in the audience, declared they fell short of the reality.

This little known park is in Southern Utah and was discovered many years ago by the Mormons under Brigham Young and by him named Zion park. The canyon narrows to a gorge in its upper reaches and presents a wonderful variety of scenery in the highly colored rock that features the peaks which rise 3000 feet from the gorge and are sculptured into fantastic shapes. Some of the Mormon residents of the valley where Mr. Wylie, who showed the pictures, mainatins a camp for tourists, have never been out of the park, he says, and never saw a moving picture or other modern marvels. With their herds and flocks, their grain and fruit, their cotton, their were independent of the outside world.

Within fifteen miles of the Wylie camp are interesting ruins of cliff dwellers which are now being explored by the Smithsonian Institution, and the northern rim of the Grand canyon, which is also little known, can be reached from the Wylie camp, also the Yellowstone park.

The auditorium of the church was well filled and the receipts were in the neighborhood of $35, which will be turned over to the building committee.

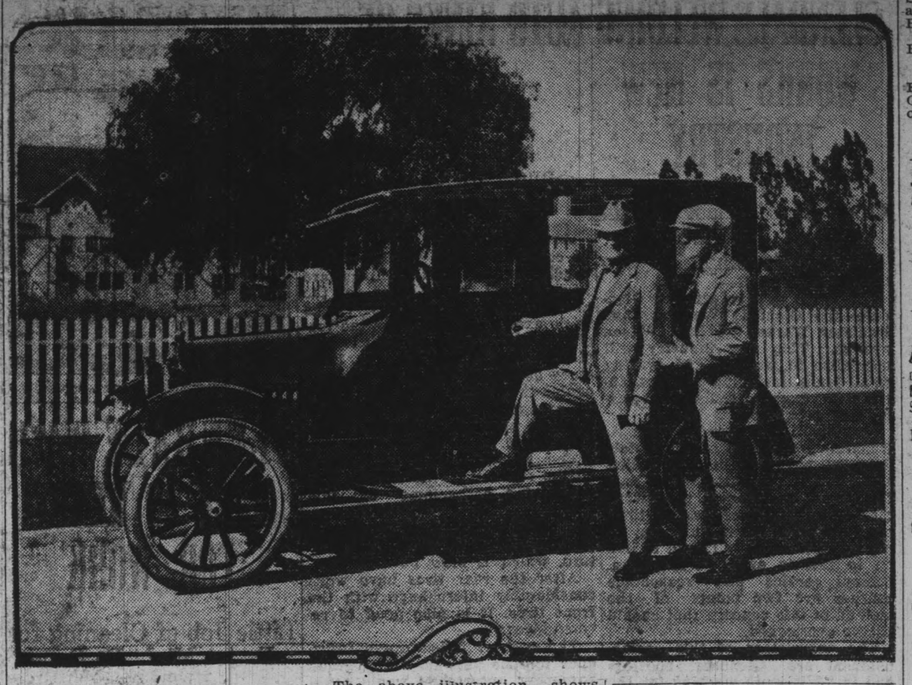
FIRST SUPERIOR 490 CHEVROLET SEDAN, 1922 MODEL BEING DELIVERED TO CHARLES SHATTUCK OF GLENDALE



The above illustration shows Fred Flack, salesman for C. L. Smith, Chevrolet agent in Glendale, corner Kenwood and Broadway, delivering to Charles Shattuck the first Superior 490 1922 Chevrolet sedan to make its appearance in Glendale. Mr. Shattuck is connected with the Glendale mills. He has driven an open Chevrolet for the past seven years. He reached the point in his history when he wanted a closed car, and he did not hesitate to put in an order for another "Chev," which speaks pretty well for that make. In fact, he purchased the car before he saw it—while it was en route to Glendale.

C. L. Smith received this week a shipment of three complete carloads of Chevrolets of different types, and these, he says are going fast. During the first fifteen days of April he sold 18 new cars, which surely is "stepping some."

"This is the car-buying season," said Mr. Smith yesterday afternoon. "With the beautiful summer days coming on, the fellow who is considering the purchase of a car would do well to make immediate purchase. This would enable him to get the maximum benefit from the warm, sunny days. There are hundreds of picnic points around Glendale and these the motorist can enjoy to the limit. He can just throw a few "eats" in the car, sprint out to the picnic grounds, and build a regular "feed" beneath the beautiful trees."

Dogs Must Keep Sober in Order to Do This

"Buck," a circus dog, is the only canine in the world who has accomplished the difficult feat of walking a rope. He was unperturbed by plaudits from the multitude that cheered him at New York's Madison Square Garden. Back stage, however, "Buck" confided to the cameraman that dogs must keep sober in order to successfully complete the rope-walking stunt.

GODOWSKY TO BE HEARD IN PASADENA

Leopold Godowsky, the world-famed pianist, will be heard in recital tonight in the auditorium of the Pasadena high school. This unique musical offering is under the auspices of the Hancock Music company, which has just opened a store in Eagle Rock city. In speaking of tonight's event, Milton Hancock said this morning:

"For years it has been the custom of the Hancock Music company to bring artists of repute to Pasadena and other communities in order that the public may be convinced of the superior qualities of the Knabe reproducing piano and the Brunswick phonograph, and after the various successful demonstrations we defy any one to detect the difference between the actual playing and the reproduction."

Glendale Daily Press Want Ads are accepted by telephone or may be brought to our office. This blank is for the benefit of the person who finds it more convenient to fill his "Want" by mail.

How to Figure Your Want Ad

Count five average words to each line. The address at the foot of your Want Ad is counted also. Each number, initial, etc., counts as one word. For example, the name, "John C. The biggest item on the program of city trustees at their regular meeting last night was the hearing of protests against assessments for the improvement of portions of Maple avenue.

City Attorney Hartley Shaw rendered a decision yesterday that prevents under the city charter any city employe taking part in a city campaign other than casting his or her vote.

The Young People's Christian Endeavor society and the Senior Christian Endeavor of the Christian church have connived together in plans for a "Countree Fair" at the church bungalow this evening.

It was an Irishman's first visit to the wilds of America, and, strange to say, he was soon fast friends with an American. The American was a dead shot. One day while they were strolling together through the woods the American, wishing to show off his shooting abilities, said:

"Say, pard, d'ye see that bi-r-d high up yonder tree?"

"Yes," answered the Irishman.

"Wall," replied Sam, "I'll get that bi-r-d first shot."

As he spoke he raised his gun to his shoulder, took careful aim, and fired. It was a good shot, and the bird, after several somersaults, fell at their feet. The American picked it up.

"I guess I've killed this bi-r-d, pard," he drawled proudly.

The Irishman pondered a while, then said:

"Oi'm glad it's only guessin' ye are, for the fall was enough to kill it."

A debate at which certain literary folk were expounding their opinions was dry and academic until two of the learned ones crossed words concerning the word "neither."

"Excuse me," said one, "but I am surprised to find you pronouncing the word as though it were spelled 'neether.'"

"My dear sir," retorted the other warmly, "'neether' is correct. I thought you would have known that it was not pronounced 'nyther.'"

"Well, let us put it to the chairman," said the first speaker, who happened to be a portly Irishman. "Which is correct, sir, 'neether' or 'nyther'?"

The Irishman rubbed his brow thoughtfully. Then he replied, "Nayther."

SUNRISE SERVICES MAKE MECCA OF EAGLE ROCK

All Roads to the Bird Rock to Be Crowded Tomorrow

The Foothill boulevard and all other roads leading to the bird rock will be full of automobilists and pedestrians at a very early hour tomorrow morning, bound for the splendid Easter sunrise service which has been arranged by a committee chosen from the Women's Twentieth Century club. Promptly at 5:21, the moment of sunrise, the bugle call and antiphonal will sound over the beautiful San Rafael hills. Beginning last Saturday night, the hugh cross on the top of the rock has been electrically lighted, a sacred symbol observed from many parts of the valley for miles around.

A beautiful Easter service has been prepared for the regular morning hour of worship in the Presbyterian church. Rev. B. B. Weatherall will preach on "The Living Lord in a Trouble World." The following music will be rendered: Prelude, "Andantino in B Flat," (Lowden); solo, "The Conquerer," (Coombs); duet, "Christ Victorious," (Roberts); "Message of the Lilies, (Bailey); anthem, "They Have Taken Away My Lord" (Stainer); postlude, "Festival March," (Morrison). There will be a vesper service at 4 o'clock and the sacraments of the Lord's Supper and baptism will be administered and new members received. The musical numbers will be, prelude, "Barcarolle," (Williams); solo, "There is a Green Hill"; offertory, "A Perfect Day," (Bond); anthem, "Bread of Life"; postlude, "Song Without Words, (Hewitt). There will be no evening service.

"The Resurrection Life," will be the theme of Rev. E. Morgan Isaac's sermon at the morning service. It will be preceded by a cantata, "The Risen King" rendered by the choir. A large class of new members will be received, and there will be a special offering for benevolences. No evening services.

Dr. John Hedley, pastor of the Methodist church will preach in the morning on the topic, "If Christ Be Not Risen," and will receive new members. There will be special music by the choir, and a special offering of the tithes for one week which have been pledged. In the evening the pastor, who spent 16 years as a missionary in North China, will tell about "Twice-Born Men in China." The Epworth League at 6:30, will discuss the subject, "Making Christ Our Guest."

The Episcopalians will celebrate holy communion at 7:15 a. m. Easter services at 11, conducted by Arch Deason Fortin and followed by holy communion. The rector, Rev. Robert Renison, will preach on "The Resurrection," in the evening.

Usual Catholic and Christian Science services.

SWANSONS MOTOR ABROAD.

Mr. and Mrs. Emil F. Swanson motored to Berkeley last week to attend the performance of "Parthenia," at the University of California, an annual feature. Mrs. Swanson's sister, Miss Marjorie Tracy of Hollywood, was the sole composer of the score this year and the work won high praise.

MAN ON CRUTCHES IS THEME OF SERMON

Rev. E. Morgan Isaacs Points to Leaning Human Weakness

In his lecture entitled "The Man on Crutches," Wednesday evening, Rev. E. Morgan Isaacs began by saying it is difficult for people to get away from something to lean upon. "The Infinite Father is trying to teach us that we have powers which, if used, make it unnecessary to lean on anything outside us. If anything goes wrong we look to someone for help, forgetting it is to the great within that we should look. Every man has within him the potential powers of the Infinite.

"It is possible for everyone to create if he will but realize his powers. We have the power of choice and initiative. If one is going to be great, so his personality will impress the world, he is not going to depend on anyone or anything, but use his own power. When you learn you are one with the Infinite, you become free. The real self within the spiritual part of the body is one with the Eternal, and if we express this we become creative. The action of the mind on the body is something tremendous."

SPRING LUNCHEON HAS SUNNY DAY

20th Century Club of Eagle Rock Holds Interesting Program

One of the rare warm and sunny days of this spring was vouchsafed the Women's Twenfieth Century club on Thursday for the monthly luncheon, followed by a business meeting and interesting program. There was a large attendance of members and guests and the tables with their great bouquets of white heather, broom, jonquils and roses, seemed to proclaim, "Belated Spring Is Here!"

Dr. Remsen Dubois Bird of Occidental college had been announced as the luncheon speaker, but was unable to come. It was, however, a great pleasure to all the ladies to see and hear as his substitute, the wife of Ralph Waldo Trine. She was introduced by Mrs. A. G. Reily, first vice president of the club who presided in the absence of the president, Mrs. M. T. Lee. Mrs. Trine at once captivated her hearers with her personality, and her intimate knowledge of the work of contemporary American poets, which was the subject on which she chose to speak, after she had referred with great appreciation to her acquaintance for years, in New York, with Mrs. Archibald Fisk, now chairman of this club. She urged everyone to study American poetry, and declared there are just as many good poets now living as have passed on. Beginning with Markham, she mentioned others not so well known and recited specimens of their work which showed their right to be ranked with poets of a high order. Modestly, also, she gave several of her own poems which were warmly applauded. She is a member of the Poetry Society of America and has published one volume.

After adjournment had been made to the auditorium, Mrs. H. L. Terry, chairman of the day, introduced Rev. Dr. John J. Blue, whom she knew years ago in Wisconsin, as the speaker. Dr. Blue, who was for years the pastor of a Presbyterian church in Pasadena, began by saying that it was the first time he had ever been asked to speak to a woman's club or had enjoyed a luncheon with such a body of women. He had chosen, "The Group Mind" for his subject. "Think what that wonderful and mysterious thing, the mind, does in all lines of endeavor," he said. "What is the mind? Body, soul, spirit, we are constituted. Mind is not an attribute of the body, but of spirit. That's as near as I can understand it. There is an individual mind, a public mind, and a group mind. The latter differs from the individual mind." To illustrate this he cited the agreement of bank directors through slight alterations in the individual thought. "The great things in life have been accomplished by group thinking. You don't know what you can do, what talent is in your mind, until it is revealed to you by meeting in some such session as this and discussing conditions and questions. Such clubs are bringing out the talents and possibilities in the women of our land which have been hidden. The group mind rubs off excrescences.

"What an influence women's clubs are having! They are of great value to a community, and there is need of them. One of the many things that you can do is to inculcate obedience to law, that we may become known as a law-abiding nation."

That popular little singer, Mrs. Paul Elderkin, rendered a group of three dainty spring songs, accompanied by Mrs. Vardaman Bailey.

Mrs. C. W. Young, chairman of the civic committee of the club urged universal cooperation in the endeavor to make Eagle Rock known as "the dahlia city" by planting the tubers this spring in conspicuous places and caring for them through the summer with the intention of exhibiting choice blossoms in October, when prizes will be given by the famous dahlia grower, J. J. Broomall, and others.

Mrs. Emma Roach and Mrs. Lillian B. Marshall were elected delegates to the annual convention of the state federation of women's clubs, which is to be held in Los Angeles May 3-6. Mrs. A. G. Reily, the president's appointee, and Mmes. K. W. Hunt and Rufus Morris will act as alternates.

'BIG GAME' AND GOLF FAN FUN AT GLENDALE

Bert Levey's Circuit Program With May Allison Film

All lovers of the photoplay, with the gift of discriminating pictures of distinction and rare merit from the ordinary, will unite in hailing the announcement that "Big Game," starring May Allison, the popular Metro star, will come to the Glendale theatre tonight.

May Allison has won a numerous following by her appealing personality, and in this photodramatization of the famous New York stage success by Willard Robertson and Kilbourn Gordon, she has a medium for the rich expression of her dazzling personality.

The reason "Big Game" will be enjoyed by everybody without exception is that its appeal is so universal, the story of a man's fight to convince himself that he is no coward, and to save the woman he loves. May Allison has the part of Eleanor Winthrop, the charming wife of "Larry" Winthrop, heir to the millions of the old Boston Winthrops. She believes Larry the essence of all things manly, but during an adventure in the North Canadian woods, to find hidden gold, her conviction totters when she finds him afraid of Henri Baptiste, a French-Canadian guide. Baptiste is bent on winning Eleanor by force, and the transformation of Larry from a weakling to an infuriated vengeful primitive is one of the fine achievements of the picture.

The current bill of vaudeville offers many entertaining features, and the bill as a whole should be fast and entertaining. Larrie Clifford and girls, offering his latest comedy vehicle, "Fun on the Golf Links," heads the new bill, and his offering should prove a solid laughing hit. Arite and Wiki Bird, in a musical melange running the gauntlet from the native tunes of the romantic South Seas to the latest musical successes of Broadway, will prove a delightful treat to the music lovers. Dixon and Freeman in their novelty singing and talking act, and Shirley and Bell in their routine of comedy patter and dancing, should add materially to the quality of the bill. Williams and Bernice "Slips of Fun," are exponents of a fast bounding and table trapeze offering and round out this entertaining bill.

Ever New Resurrection Story To be Told Tomorrow With Music in Glendale Churches

Prosperity of the Year Will Be Reflected in the Houses of Worship Now Aglow with Floral Decorations

EXTENSIVE PROGRAMS OF SONGS PREPARED

Soloists More Distinctly Feature Celebration of Easter This Year Which Include Sunrise Services in the Verdugo Hills

With green hills and flower strewn lanes testifying anew to the resurrection of spring, church bells inviting to service, and the air filled with songs of birds, all Glendale will put on Easter garb and go to church on Sunday, even though on most of the Sundays of the past a goodly number have been elsewhere. It is the one Sunday in the year, the day celebrating a risen, living Christ, that makes an irresistible appeal and every church will be filled to overflowing.

Knowing this, all the churches have made ready to receive the many who will pledge their troth to the church on this day and unite with it, and also to receive the multitudes who come for the day only.

The sermons will have a common theme, however much they may vary in their viewpoint, music will richly embellish the services, and lilies will adorn the altars.

Each church will seek worthy participation in the great festival of joy. Fine programs have been prepared by all the churches of Glendale, though some are more elaborate than others.

The celebration of Easter in Glendale will begin with a sunrise service which will be in charge of Harry Marple and G. Edwin Murphy, and which will be held on the hill at the north end of Louise street at 6:30 a. m.

It is being promoted by the Epworth League and Christian Endeavor societies of the city, and W. A. Horn will lead the meeting.

The program will include an instrumental trio of two clarinets and a baritone horn played by Leslie and Roland Percey and Cecli Percey of Sunland.

Miss Helen Ingledue will play the portable organ, Dr. J. C. Livingston of the Casa Verdugo Methodist church will pronounce the invocation; the sermon will be preached by Rev. Clifford E. Cole of the Central Christian church, and selections will be sung by Paul and Frank Butterfield, Dr. C. R. Lusby and Dr. P. O. Lucas, and passages of scripture will be read by Ernest Gregg. The service will last less than an hour.

The Burbank Choral Club will assist in the sunrise Easter services that will be held at the head of Magnolia avenue, Budbank.

The Hallelujah Chorus and other hymns will echo in the canyons of the picturesque Verdugos at 6 o'clock.

PRESBYTERIAN SERVICES

Easter will be a day of special celebration for the Glendale Presbyterian church because in addition to the customary observances morning and evening there will be an afternoon "ground breaking service" on the site of the new church to be built at the corner of Harvard and Louise. The orator of the occasion will be Dr. Hugh K. Walker of the First Presbyterian church of Los Angeles, and each organization of the church will have a representative on the program. The musical part of that program, which is in charge of the director, Mrs. Fannie Marple Retts, will include instrumental numbers by Mr. and Mrs. Keith Brooks of Los Angeles, players of wind instruments, and there will be two numbers by the church quartet composed of Mrs. Graham Cole, soprano, Mrs. Fannie Marple Retts, contralto, Everett Anderson, tenor, and C. Clifford Riggs, baritone. One of the numbers they will sing will be "The Gloria" from the Twelfth Mass by Mozart.

The music at the morning service will include a harp solo by Margery Jean Bailey, a soprano solo by Mrs. Cole, "I Know that My Redeemer Liveth" from Handel's "Messiah," and two quartet numbers, "The Resurrection and the Life" (Wilson) and "Hosannah to the Living Lord." (Adams).

In the evening a beautiful cantata entitled "Easter Angels" by Searif will be given by the quartet with Miss Carolyn Bailey at the organ.

CENTRAL METHODISTS

At the Central avenue Methodist church plans had been made for an Easter pageant which had to be abandoned because of the illness of several persons to whom parts had been assigned.

The Easter celebration will therefore be confined for the most part to the special music of the day as arranged by Mrs. Harry S. MacMullin, choir director. The program as reported by her will include the singing by the choir of "Hallelujah, He is Risen" by De Reef, and "Eastern Morn" by the same composer, the tenor solo being sung by Hugh Tuttle. The choir will also sing "The Gloria" by Mozart and Mrs. MacMullin will sing the soprano solo, "Open the Gates" by Knott.

In the evening the choir will give "Christ is Risen" (Adams) and Sing Ye Heavens" (Wright); Mrs. MacMullin singing "Why Seek Ye the Living" (Brander).

CONGREGATIONAL

The Easter program at the Congregational church has made provision for a Sunday school celebration at 5 p. m. In other words it will be a twilight service at which the Easter story will be told in song in a cantata entitled "In the Garden of Joseph." Each class in the Sunday school will have a song and Miss Edna Farner will be the reader.

The regular Sunday school will be held in the morning as usual and in order that the school's Easter celebration may not encroach on the program of the church services, it has been set for the hour named. Mrs. H. W. Yarick has general charge of the cantata arrangements.

For the morning church service a special program of Easter music has been arranged by the choir director, Mrs. Charles A. Parker. Mrs. Viginia Fereman has been secured as an assisting artist and will sing the soprano solo "Hosannah" by Grenier. The choir will give the anthem "Break Forth in Joy" (Barnby); and a quartet composed of Mrs. Gladys Gibbs Sherman, soprano; Mrs. Charles A. Parker, contralto; Charles Comfort, tenor, and H. W. Yarick, bass, will sing "Who Are These That Are Arrayed in White Robes" (Stainer). Still another anthem will be sung by the choir—"Sing Unto the Lord a New Song" (Holton) with soprano obligato by Mrs. Freeman.

Miss Gertrude Champlain, the accompanist, will play appropriate preludes and postludes.

TROPICO PRESBYTERIAN

The musical portion of the Easter program of the Tropico Presbyterian church, as arranged by the choir director, Mrs. S. H. Wilcox, will include a cantata, "Fom Death to Life" by Bartlett, which will be given in the evening at 7:30 by the choir assisted by Mrs. Zoelle, a professional soprano now living in Glendale, who was recently a soloist at an Ellis club concert.

The program at the morning service will include a duet, "O, My Father" (Heiser), sung by Mr. and Mrs. Wilcox, and a quintette number "Tell Us Our Lord is Near" (Bartlett), sung by Misses Dorothy Thompson, Helena Richardson, Nancy St. Clair, Messrs. S. H. Wilcox and H. B. Goldsborough.

FIRST METHODIST

Members of the Glendale Commandery, Knights Templar, will be special guests at the Easter service Sunday morning in the First Methodist church. They will assemble at the Masonic Temple on South Brand boulevard and in full uniform will march from there to the church at 10:30 in charge of Captain Thomas D. Watson.

The pastor, Dr. Clyde Monroe Crist, will preach from the text "Now is Christ Risen." There will be a communion service and a large number of new members received into the church, and a program of Easter music will be given. It will include: Organ prelude "Resurrection Morn" (Johnston) and postlude "Jubilante Amen" (Kinder), anthem by the choir, "Christ is Risen" (Birch) and a double quartet composed of Misses Isabel Isgrig, Dorothy Peart, Dora Wainwright, Mrs. Templeton, and Messrs. M. S. Kuehny, J. C. Clark, Arthur Haines and Frank Butterfield will sing "Resurrection" by Shelley.

The big feature of the evening's program will be the cantata "Life and Death" (Shelly) by the choir with solo numbers by Miss Isabel Isgrig, Miss Dorothy Peart, J. C. Clark and Frank Butterfield.

The organ prelude of the evening will be "Contemplation" from "The Holy City" (Gaul) and the postlude "Hosannah" (Carl). There will also be two male quartet numbers: "The Day of Resurrection" and "Christ Arose."

FIRST LUTHERAN

The special features of the Easter morning program at the First Lutheran church will be a solo, "Glittering Morn" (Light), sung by Mrs. Cora Manson-Olson, a professional singer who was the soloist of the Pacific Coast Sangerfest. The "Te Deum" will be sung by the choir.

In the evening a special musical program entitled "The Easter Message" will be given by the young people of the Bible school.

FIRST BAPTIST

At the First Baptist church it has been felt that nothing should come in to distract from the evangelistic services which have been conducted by Dr. James Holmes and which will end Sunday night. The music at the services will, however, be Easter in character, and the thought of the risen Lord will not be absent.

CASA VERDUGO METHODIST

The Casa Verdugo Methodist church, though small in comparison with some of its sister churches, keeps abreast with them in its work and has prepared a fine Easter program. At the morning service the choir will give "The Shout of Victory" with Mrs. Jones singinug the obligato solo, and Mrs. Winger will sing an Easter number in solo. The main Easter service of the day, however, will be given at 7:30 in the evening. The program will include two anthems by the choir directed by W. F. Blaikie, "O Death, Where is Thy Sting?" (Tully) and "Break Forth in Joy" (Simper). There will be a violin solo by William Bramman; a soprano solo by Mrs. J. B. Bureis, "Show Me Thy Way, O Lord" (Torrenti); vocal solo by John Cotton, "Resurrection" by Shelley; solo by Mrs. William F. Blaikie, "Hosannah" by Granier; Helen White, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. D. White will whistle in solo a number by Greig with Miss Gladys Sharpe at the piano; Mrs. Waldo Winger will sing "Angels Roll the Rock Away" by Hawley; Mrs. John Cotton will sing "Open the Gates of the Temple" by Knapp with violin obligato by Mr. Bramman; a quartet composed of Mr. and Mrs. Blaikie and Mr. and Mrs. Cotton will sing "Alleluia" by Dudley Buck. There will be processional and recessional hymns, and Mrs. R. D. Jones will give "The Legend of the Lilies."

CENTRAL CHRISTIAN

The Central Christian church has special reason for rejoicing upon Easter because the walls of its beautiful new church have been reared and it will soon be ready for dedication. The regular church service will be supplemented by Easter music, two anthems by the choir in the morning: "Alleluia" He is Risen" (De Rees), and "Come See the Place Where Jesus Lay" (Shelley). At the evening service the choir will sing "The Bells on Easter Morn" (Chaffin) and Mrs. W. D. McKay will read "Let Us Follow Him" by the author of "Quo Vadis."

HOLY FAMILY CHURCH

Easter is one of the great days in the Catholic church and at the Holy Family church of which Rev. James S. O'Neill is pastor, two masses will be celebrated. The first will be at 7:30 a. m. when a fine program of Easter carols and anthems will be rendered by the children's choir under the direction of Miss Ada Gies. The second mass will be celebrated at 9:30, when a musical program will be given under the direction of Harry Girard, organist and choirmaster, assisted by the choir. It will include Oliver Emerson's Festival Mass in E flat, and "Hosanna" by Jules Granier, sung by Mr. Girard.

VICE REIGNS IN LONDON NIGHT LIFE

Sun-Dodgers of Great City Are Peculiar Type of People

LONDON, April 15.—Pleasures and pains, amusements and vices of the ages bloom with the night in London.

To one who wants to dissect it and classify its varied aspects, London at night is Paris, Port Said, New York, Berlin, Babylon, Hong-Kong and Hell and Heaven on earth.

Nine o'clock at Piccadilly Circus; soft yellow lights on black, shining streets that seem to reflect their rays; taxicabs and limousines and the world walking by—France, Egypt, India, Japan, America, walking by with their girls; be-jeweled, be-furred, bobbed-haired women; smartly, plainly, shabbily dressed men with them; lords, ladies, commoners beary, boated flower-"girls," watching the procession they once may have graced; demi-mondaines, dressed to the minute-after-next, some of whom will sometime join the flowergirls, and realize it in odd moments of introspection — the maudlin despondency of early morning or the rasping, jerky semi-sobriety of early afternoon; crooks, officers, artists, clerks, sailors, dopes and dope-sellers at street corners, making up a casually progressing parade that never quite ceases and never seems going anywhere, but in quest of the spirit of London's night life.

No man can visualize it unless he can live in fancy the centuries that have gone, the day that is pasing, and the morning that is to come; all of which bring the metropolis to what it is: Stodgy, bored, quiet-seeming, drinking, dancing, laughing, loving, living London; staid, tolerant, cynical, friendly; wholesome or vicious as the fancy moves; a gigantic church with a Baccanalia in the vestry room; a harbor for the virtues and vices of the ages—what New York would be, softened by two thousand years of existance.

In short, London is a very old lady with a very large family of whom she is neglectful, but all of whom she loves, and whose shortcomings she overlooks when possible; staid, tolerant; soft, hard; blase, friendly.

No type can represent accurately the Londan man- or woman-about-town. Thousands can be said to represent the spirit of its more exotic night life, doing a bit of everything by fits and starts, and tiring quickly of an overdose of anything but dancing, drinking and loving—the skeleton for any scenario of the city; with the acting according to the ever-changing cast with their never-changing types.

Nell Gwynne may be seen any evening along Regent street, with Beau Brummel taking her to wine or dine at one or at a successor to one of their respective haunts of the Restoration or the Regency.

Night starts in London when the pubs open for the second half of the day's drinking, and ends when the last of London's children are too tired, too bored, too drunk, too broke, or too sober to carry on—anywhere from 11 o'clock in the evening to noon the next day, when jowls are shaved or noses powdered for the first heat of the daily indoor sports.

There may have been a ride in the Park in the morning, or headache powders, or half a dozen matutinal drinks, or work. But at lunch time the day really starts—the pre-luncheon drinking and the luncheon and drinking.

Afterward there may be tea, a matinee, anything; there may have been a race meeting to attend that day.

At 5:30 the night starts. The regulars begin to drift into the West-End drinkeries — cocktail bars, pubs, restaurants. There is a couple of hour's desultory drinking and then dinner. Then begins the real entertainment of the evening—the serious drinking and the dancing.

Hundreds of restaurants, hotels, clubs and dives are open or opened for the bored Londoner to choose from to amuse himself more thoroughly. In all parts of the city, but particularly at its heart, the West-End, clubs, night-clubs, dance halls are opening, closing or preparing to open or close.

With his purse, his desires, in some cases his social standing, and his conscience, if any, to guide him, the Londoner—perhaps a Londoner for a week from any of the ends of the earth—can find any sort of amusement that has appealed to the callow, sophisticated, or best of almost any age.

In addition to the dining and drinking, at some of the places combined with the dancing, there is the dancing itself.

Ciro's, Murray's, other more or less exclusive dance-clubs; the great restaurants, Prince's the Criterion, dozens of them, are in full blast, along with the dance halls and the earlier night-clubs, off in the streets and by-streets radiating from the heart of the West-End.

They are the real beginning of the night. They close at midnight, an hour after the pubs, and with the pubs, send out their thousands in search of more amusement or forgetfulness; some of them to the coffee-stalls and cab-shelters along the curbs at strategic points, for a bite before bed or the next round.

At midnight the evening is well-started; for some meek ones or weak ones, ending; for the others opening up in the late dancing and drinking clubs—the latter part strictly beneath the surface—that open at midnight and close at three or four.

Though rated as clubs in order to comply with police regulations, they are easy to get into. If a visitor unacquainted with the rather formal formula for admission at some of them fails, he has only to wait a few minutes to select a partner from the passing crowd who will get him in and dance with him. Girls are easy to get in London.

Most of the clubs are harmless; many have vicious reputations, some are vicious and almost all contain all the elements of almost any vice.

But the vice is not obstrusive. Anyone can find it easily if he looks for it, but if just looking at it may be deceived. The demure little blonde may lack merely the one dring that will make her a cursing, clawing fury, to be ignored if possible, or quieted or taken out. At any of the scores of places, the dancing goes on to the accompaniment of the jazz orchestras, many negroes, mostly Americans, though now many British jazz perpetrators are ousting them.

At some of the places, there is no illegal drinking; the customers take it along with them in flask or in system, or go without, just as they do in New York. At others, the drinking is done quietly; not in the dance room, but in the club "office," a word to the manager who escorts the parties into his sanctum and measures out the drinks.

Few of them are ever prosecuted. Many clubs are raided as disreputable or as violating the liquor laws; most of these, however, are new clubs that lack the finesse or the somethings else that gets the old ones by.

Three-thirty or four o'clock, and the last of the night-clubs are closed or by way of closing.

That ends the night for some of the dancers. The others may go to Convent Garden, where by this time the market pubs have opened by special dispensation for the market workers, who fight with the black-and-white-clothed men and the rainbow-clothed women for room at the bars.

Or they may go to one of the new breakfast clubs; usually dancing clubs that close at midnight and reopen at four; for ham and eggs and perhaps a few more drinks, sometimes here served openly.

There will be a repetition of the earlier scenes without the dancing—an occasional man or woman slumping drunkenly in a chair; a woman suddenly hysterical, with lank whisps of hair falling about her face; another sobbing quietly, as if for what she is; probably, however, because she finds her glass empty and thinks someone is playing a joke on her; a loud-voiced argument between quondam bosom friends of an hour; an incipient fight; on occasion a quiet movement to the door of a few members of the great West-end gang of pickpockets and general thieves in the wake of some man who has incurred their enmity and will be involved in a fight outside and beaten and left half-dead by the six or a dozen men who attack him in the chivalrous way in which the London gangster wages war.

BUILDING TUNNEL UNDER HUDSON

NEW YORK, April 15. — Work on the $40,000,000 vehicular tunnel under the Hudson river is under way. Contracts call for completion in four years, including approaches.

The total length of the tunnel is 9,250 feet. The two tubes will have an hourly capacity in both directions of 3800 vehicles. Each tube will have room for two automobiles abreast, and there will be a six-foot sidewalk.

The ventilation plan provides for changing the air 40 times an hour and the projectors have no fear of gasoline fumes.

Each tube will have an outside diameter of 29 feet 6 inches. The tubes will lie side by side.

The New York entrance will be at Broome and Varick streets, and the exit at Canal and Varick. As it will be necessary to go under the Erie railroad yards, the New Jersey ends will be further back from the river, the entrance at Provost and 12th streets, and the exit at Provost and 14th.

Following data indicates the magnitude of the work:

Length of tunnel, 9,250 feet; distance between portals, 8,330 feet; distance between river shafts, 3,375 feet; length of underriver portion, 5,480 feet; two roadways, each 20 feet wide; headroom, 13 feet 6 inches; estimated hourly capacity in both directions, 3800 vehicles; estimated maximum daily capacity, 46,000 vehicles; maximum depth to top of tunnel below mean high water, 72 feet; maximum depth of roadway below mean high water, 93 feet.

Ground was broken for the first construction work March 31. The cost is being shared by the states of New York and New Jersey.

RIVER SMELTS ARE WEATHER SHARPS

PORTLAND, Ore., April 15.—Columbia river smelt are almost as good weather prophets as Oregon's famous golf-course gulls, according to John Gill, Oregon ichthyologist, who is jealous of seeing the gulls getting all the publicity that the weather man tries to claim.

"There is an opinion among fishermen," says Gill, "that when smelt are well established and spawning in the Cowlitz river there will be no more extreme cold weather for the season. I trust the smelt as the true prophets of spring in the great northwest.

"This phenomenal winter of four months' duration has given us remarkable proof of the smelts' weather wisdom. They appeared as usual about January 1, and for 10 weeks were almost continually in the market. Always for weeks the smelt loaf about in the lower Columbia getting accustomed to the change from salt to fresh water. The rivers were near freezing from December 1 to March 1. There was hadly a day of the usual wam copious rain, a condition heretofore unknown. One day about four weeks ago the first skirmishers of the smelt appeared in the Cowlitz. Conditions were not right and they dropped back into the Columbia, but shortly afterward appeared again, and spring had come."

ADS IN POST OFFICE

LONDON, April 15.—The Postmaster General announced in a speech that the post office, in an effort to make money, has requested bids for advertisements in post offices throughout the country and also on the backs of postage stamps, under the glue.

JUMPS SAVED HIM

LONDON, April 15.—Corporal Charles McCausland, of the Royal Air Force, has escaped for the fourth time from airplane crashes by jumping as the crippled plane neared the ground. In each case the pilot has been killed.

TASTE NOT INSANITY

LONDON, April 15. — Relatives failed in their attempt to break the will of Baron Russell, who left $100,000 to his chauffer-companion and, during his life, hung dolls on his bedstead and discharged a trained nurse because her pink cheeks clashed with the orange wallpaper. Commenting on the wallpaper incident, the judge said: "I sympathize with him. I dislike a violent clash of colors. I do not think that is the letter of a man whose mind is unbalanced. I rather regard it as proof of sanity."

WAR DEBT DECREASING

At its peak the war debt of the United States was $26,596,701,648. On Decerber 31 last this debt had been decreased to less than $23,500,000,000. At present the debt is being paid off at the rate of $180,000,000 a month.

IF SKIN BREAKS OUT AND ITCHES APPLY SULPHUR

Just the moment you apply Mentho-Sulphur to an itching, burning or broken out skin, the itching stops and healing begins, says a noted skin specialist. This sulphur preparation, made into a pleasant cold cream, gives such a quick relief, even to fiery eczema, that nothing has ever been found to take its place.

Because of its germ destroying properties, it quickly subdues the itching, cools the irritation and heals the eczema right up, leaving a clear, smooth skin in place of ugly eruptions, rash, pimples or roughness.

You do not have to wait for improvement. It quickly shows. You can get a little jar of Mentho-Sulphur at any drug store.—Adv.

Truths in Epigram

All men desire to be immortal.—Parker (1810-1860).

Take the whole range of imaginative literature, and we are all wholesale borrowers. In every matter that relates to invention, to use, or beauty or form, we are borrowers. — Phillips (1811-1884).

The great city is that which has the greatest man or woman.—Whitman (1819-1892).

SOLEMN EASTER THOUGHTS

As tomorrow dawns there will sweep across the Christian world a revivified memory of Resurrection morn. With songs and prayer and the intoning of stately harmonies, countless thousands will in humility acknowledge their gratitude that there has come down to them through the centuries since the stone was rolled away from the holy sepulchure, the promise of eternal life.

One whose life and death were the making of the promise to which faith clings undoubting and unafraid, had said while moving among men: "Suffer little children to come unto me." Out of the serene and matchless beauty of divine love had come this tribute to the little ones. Should not a spirit so benign be reflected in the attitude of those who worship now?

At a moment of inspiration Julia Ward Howe wrote as part of the immortal "Battle Hymn":

"In the beauty of the lilies Christ was born
across the sea,
With a glory in His bosom that transfigures
you and me."

Transfigures mankind until it partakes of the character of the Master, and is stirred to its deeps by the impulses His presence had created and loosed, a benison to countless millions.

Today there are little children such as Christ loved; such as those on whose behalf was uttered the appeal that they be suffered to come unto Him. And thousands of these are dying, knowing first the long torture of hunger. They sleep without shelter. The searching winds find their puny bodies naked. They have no parents, no guardians. The horrors of war have bereft them of all that makes life sheltered, happy; sends into it a gleam of hope. They wander in misery until they perish as they fall. Charity has saved some, is saving some, but out of the abundance that has blessed the United States, the offerings are not sufficient. Necessity has arisen for cutting former supplies 25 per cent. This means that out of each 100 children who might have been saved one-fourth are as truly under sentence of death as though criminals condemned by process of court. Is not this fact a shame to civilization?

The only aid for the boys and girls of Armenia must come from America. Impoverished Europe could not supply it if it would. Armenia is surrounded by bankrupt peoples, and is under constant threat of hostile peoples. Through a wickedness of diplomacy probably unprecedented since government has been conducted on orderly plan, the desolated region has been left for the Turk to ravish. The only physical salvation for Armenia is the United States, and it may be able to exercise a moral influence even over the brutalized Turk.

America is not responsible for the misfortunes of the Armenians. The responsibility it feels in this matter is born of its perceptions of right and wrong. It has the opportunity to bind up the wounds of a sorrowing nation, to snatch its babes and youth from the clutch of famine. It must give, give, give. Either this, or its own garments will not be free of the blood of the innocent.

Welcome the coming of Easter morn. Welcome it, with heads bowed as for a benediction. Greet it with music and songs of praise.

Think then that all the ceremonial is in honor of the Christ who was tender with the little ones.

Think that even now, in agony and wretchedness, the little ones to whom His hands were extended in gentle affection, die with moans for bread on their lips.

Remember, too, "the glory in His bosom" and its transfiguring power.

A SAMPLE CASE

Many months ago Everett A. Hutchings was indicted in this county for swindling by a confidence game. He was known to be a professional swindler. He had carried on his business for a long time, and with skill and boundless insolence. In relation to him, the "presumption of innocence" although given formal respect, was a figment of the law. There was no such presumption. Hutchings fled this jurisdiction and went to New York, where he engaged in gambling. He was arrested there, but won freedom. Bribery was the method by which he was suspected of doing this. The district attorney of Los Angeles county caused his re-arrest, and went to New York. There he had to overcome a bitter fight on the part of the prisoner and a brood of rogue lawyers, against extradition, but he brought the prisoner home.

There was a trial at which the guilt of Hutchings was established. In an interval of the proceedings, the district attorney once lost his temper and did then and there, as attorneys would phrase it, whack counsel for defense upon the nose with intent then and there to bruse and turn awry the organ in question. This was not regular of course. It did not, however, have any bearing on the question of guilt on the part of defendant, nor was there adequate showing that the lawyer attached to the nose had not provoked the assault. Nevertheless the assault was made the basis of an appeal to a higher court.

After long delay the appeal was denied as having no merit. The real question was the theft by trick and device of one specific sum of $50,000 or thereabouts. Another appeal followed, this time to the supreme court of the state. One more long delay, and again the appeal was denied, exactly, it is fair to say, as it should have been. This left the convicted man without further recourse so far as revealed. He has sent in word that he will surrender himself, the first recognition he has accorded to the law made and provided.

When a plain case, such as this, can be dragged through the various courts for months, at great expense to taxpayers, some light is thrown on the sometimes puzzling circumstance that thieves and swindlers thrive.

CHILDISH LYING

Writing on the subject of "Childish Lying" a woman ascribes this tendency to fear of punishment. To a certain extent the explanation may be valid. The deliberate lie, the attempt to deceive for gain, or to evade penalty, lacks, however, the element of childishness. Unfortunately it is more likely to be the symptom of a dawning maturity. The youngster has observed the methods of its elders, and seeks to profit by imitation.

All students of child life realize that the budding intelligence with difficulty lays hold upon the identity of truth, and can have no realization of its value, or its necessity as a central point from which formation of character may proceed. There is nothing strange about this. The imagination of the little one is aroused, its mind begins to function. It receives impressions from experience. When a train of thought is thus started, there is no telling whither it may lead. It is not surprising at all that the infant perception fails to differentiate reality from the vague figures and adventures of its dreams, or its waking fancies.

There is neither malice nor iniquity in the lie of pure childishness. The distinction that conscience makes between the actual and the false cannot be present until that conscience has been created. Children are not born with an instinctive grasp of such abstruse matters as right and wrong. Their expanding mentalities simply run riot. They cannot analyze the impressions that come to them through this process. So they babble of unseen things as real, and prattle in fairy lore. This is natural, and in no sense a practice to be worried about.

HARD TO PLEASE

Twelve prominent citizens of Arkansas have been forever barred from jury duty. They are making a great row about it. The court fired them and shut the gates after them, on the ground that in the case of a bootlegger they had brought in a verdict of acquittal, said verdict being wholly contrary to the evidence. Judged by the conduct of juries in many other places, it is probable that the court was correct in its estimate of the jury's conduct, whatever the justice of the penalty that followed.

When the citizen is summoned to jury duty, he is likely to make loud lament. He begs the court to let him off. It is painfully frequent for him to lie himself out of doing his duty, and with never a blush, swear to the lie, going his way quite satisfied that he is a good citizen still. He would resent any insinuation casting doubt on this point. But the Arkansas incident shows that men are hard to please.

This particular dozen went forth relieved of obligation ever to serve again. According to the usual attitude of their kind, they should have thanked the court. Thereafter they might have been conscious of a new and unwonted freedom. No more dread of the subpoena server, no more listening to the frenzied oratory and the dull questioning of trials. Yet they found they were not happy. They were stirred by the ambition to be again as other citizens, and not a favored class apart.

Really it is difficult to understand what is the matter with them.

LEST WE FORGET

By DR. FRANK CRANE

It is all very well to forgive and forget.

But we should not carry our forgetfulness to the point of the past.

And it might be in point just now to remember the story of the Llandovery Castle. The Llandovery Castle was an English hospital ship which, during the war, was returning to England loaded with the wounded and the sick with their nurses and caretakers.

DR. FRANK CRANE

It was torpedoed by a German submarine and sunk in less than ten minutes.

Three lifeboats succeeded in escaping the wreck. They were filled with wounded men and their women nurses. They were rowing away when they were hailed by the submarine and ordered to stop. The submarine came up and the German officers went through the boats searching the passengers and asking them questions. They discovered, of course, that the Llandovery Castle was not carrying a single combatant or a gun.

"This is bad business," said Lieutenant Patzig, commandant of the submarine. It was manifestly therefore to the advantage of his nation that this story should not be told. He made as if to go away, and, when he had gone a little distance, gave order to fire upon the lifeboats. Lieutenant Ludwig Dithmar and Lieutenant Johann Boldt directed the fire. Two of the lifeboats sunk with their human cargo. The third escaped as by a miracle. This was one of the most abominable acts of the war, and a deed of piracy as ferocious as history records.

After the armistice the English government demanded that the three German officers above mentioned should be given up to them for trial. The German government refused, and offered to try them itself. The English government acceded. The trial took place.

The matter is now called to our attention from the fact that all three of the accused have escaped. They were sentenced by the German court to four years of imprisonment.

Lieutenant Patzig got away and went to South America.

Dithmar and Boldt were sent to prison. Last December Boldt, who was in prison at Hamburg, succeeded in escaping one fine evening, nobody knows how.

Some time later Dithmar, who was in prison in Thuringa, also managed to walk out of his prison, and no one knows now where he is.

The unescapable logic of these facts is that the most unspeakable criminals of the war still find German judges who can punish them with sentences that are ridiculous, German jailers who can aid them to escape, and a public opinion that shrugs its shoulders.

THE LISTENING POST

You can be sorry.
As many people are.
Too many.
Who are always sorry about something.
The key of their existence is minor.

* * *

And then you can be glad.
A lot of people are glad about things.
For there are many things to be glad for.
And the people who see the things to be glad for live in the major key of existence.

* * *

You may live in a minor key if you wish.
The minor key is a sort of wailing note.
The note of regret and sorrow.
And the major key is a spirited note.
The note of happiness.

* * *

It is not necessary to be foolish about it all.
Slushy, we might say.
If you fall down and break a leg you don't need to be glad about it.
There is nothing to be glad about.
Unless you are glad you did not break both legs.

* * *

And your neighbor ought not to be glad if you break a leg.
But he ought to minister to your need if he can.
While you are disabled.
And be glad that he has thought to do something for you.

You have met the sorry people.
They are sorry about everything in general.
About hunger and need and trial and distress.
About themselves and their mishaps.
They are living in a state of joyous melancholy.

* * *

Now if they lived in the major key instead of the minor they would set out to do something.
To relieve distress.
To comfort sorrow.
To feed hunger.
And they would be glad for the chance to be of use in the world.

It is not good to be always sorry about some past misfortune.
It is better the world gives us the chance to retrieve misfortune.
It is not good to be sorry about past losses.
It is better to be glad that we have the chance to recoup them.

It is not good to bewail lost opportunities.
It is better to be glad there are still opportunities waiting for us.
It is not good to bewail the dead past.
It is better to rejoice for the living present.

It is up to you.
Whether you exist in the minor key of sorrow and melancholy and despair.
Or the major key of life and light and happiness.

SONGS OF THE POETS

Christ Our Example in Suffering—James Montgomery (1771-1854)

Go to dark Gethsemane,
Ye that feel the tempter's power;
Your Redeemer's conflict see,
Watch with Him one bitter hour;
Turn not from His griefs away,
Learn of Jesus Christ to pray!

Follow to the judgment hall,
View the Lord of Life arraigned;
O, the wormwood and the gall!
O, the pangs His soul sustained!
Shun not suffering, shame, or loss,—
Learn of Him to bear the cross!

Calvary's mournful mountain climb;
There, adoring at His feet,
Mark that miracle of time,
God's own sacrifice complete!
"It is finished!" hear the cry;
Learn of Jesus Christ to die!

Early hasten to the tomb
Where they aid His breathless clay;
All is solitude and gloom;
Who hath taken Him away?
Christ is risen! He meets our eyes!
Saviour, teach us so to rise!

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

THE HONEST WAY

[Chicago Evening Post]

We hope the senate will shelve the "cashless" bonus as promptly as possible. Then we should like to see them initiate the necessary step to call the draft boards back into service and to have them make an honest and impartial estimate of the ex-service men's needs. Some of the "boys" need cash aid, some of them need homes or farms, some need education; others need help in getting fitted into suitable jobs, with cash to keep them alive in the meantime. The work of the draft boards has been characterized as over 95 per cent efficient. This efficiency, if placed at the disposition of the veterans, would make an intelligent use of the bonus far more likely.

Furthermore, the United States needs to know in advance what the relief of the veterans will cost. At present it is all guesswork, and no one has pretended to figure accurately how much money the government will be called on to provide, nor when. Officials of the treasury department estimate that, under the house bill, it will cost the nation $400,000,000 in the next year or so to pay off the cash claims of less than $50 each and to fiance the bonus options of vocational education, home-building aid, etc., without providing a cent for the cashing of certificates in 1925. But congress apparently regards the above as idle guessing and has not moved in any way to raise this sum.

The senate should conclude that as the American people are determined on a bonus, they are also willing to pay for it. Senators should insist on a survey as suggested above. And then they should bodily proceed to vote the taxes or the bond issue which will finance the known requirements of the situation. That is the only honest way to settle once and for all the question of a soldiers' bonus.

JUST BETWEEN OURSELVES

By DELLA STEWART

With most of us life is merely a series of chances to begin over. It would be many times as discouraging as it is were it not for this. No one ever need find it hopeless if within is the willingness to start afresh, taking heed to the lessons of the past.

Failure is no cause for discouragement. If we make it so, ourselves only are at fault. No great accomplishment has come about yet without a whole background of failures. Success lies more in the overcoming of these than in the final accomplishment. Given the overcoming, with fresh courage after every mishap, and the final accomplishment is only a matter of time and patience. We limit ourselves greatly when we refuse to see or acknowledge this.

Our failure may have been no fault of our own. We may have planned as wisely as we were able to, we may have worked with all the vim at our command, and yet the circumstances of life have overcome us. Then we're so apt to complain and growl and mourn—three very foolish processes, foolish, because they never have been known to get any one anywhere.

Of course, if, having been flung in the mire, we decide we want to wallow there and let every one who comes that way run over our prostrate individualities, we can. There's no law, either human or terrestrial, against it. If we refuse to take up the burden of existence or effort cheerily, hopefully, we can and do become cumberers of the earth to all, especially to those who love us.

We can be growlers or cheerers—just as we decide.

MIXED JURIES UNDER LOCK

[Springfield Union]

The uproar in St. Paul, Minn., over the locking up in one room for two nights of a mixed jury composed of seven women and five men, has brought home to the men and women of Minnesota a realization of the fact that equal citizenship is not an unmixed blessing. When only males were eligible for jury duty the practice of keeping the "twelve good men and true" under lock and key until they had agreed on a verdict or until it was manifest that they could not agree, was accepted as unavoidable and proper, but now that women have attained equal rights, and also equal responsibilities, the custom assumes a different aspect. "Never would I allow Mrs. Perus to go through such an ordeal," was the declaration of Governor Perus when the case was called to his attention. As time goes on there will be other annoying, if not quite so disagreeable, reminders of the burdens and responsibilities which are as much a part of full citizenship as the equal rights that have been conferred upon women.

AS SPRING COMES

[St. Louis Star]

With the winter virtually over the country may congratulate itself on having passed through a season that had every promise of being one of intense suffering for the unemployed in good shape. Soup lines have been rare and the charitable resources of the country have been ample to take care of all cases of real need. Even the weather was good to us.

Thus the spring approaches with shining promise. As in the vernal months the young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love, let the thoughts of America turn to smoking factory stacks and structural steel.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

Nobody seems no doubt that Chief Everington of the Los Angeles police means well. His honesty and his sincerity of purpose have not been questioned, so far as observed. He came to the police force out of the army. When he gave his police subordinates an order, he expected it to be obeyed as implicity and quickly as a war-time command to advance against a machine gun nest.

HENRY JAMES

One of his early orders was to "clean out vice." Quite unconsciously he had demanded the working of a miracle. The miracle was not worked. The vice area lacks visability and compactness. Off went the heads of the subordinates. Two of the victims were captains of long years of service, men of excellent standing as citizens, who had won and held public respect, and who have it yet. They are asking an open trial of the issue.

In Los Angeles police chiefs come and go. Their tenure is insecure and fleeting. It hardly seems just that a new one, even though he is destined to break precedent by remaining long, should be ready to throw into the discard subordinates who have been trained to be policemen, who have proved themselves able and courageous.

There seems to be still a reasonable assurance that the owner of jewels may retain them. The only course open, is to place them in a box, in the vault of a reputable bank.

To insist upon wearing them where they may be seen of men, or keeping them in the home, is a mere fashion of surrendering them to the footpad or the burglar.

Seldom has a family of culture and social standing been so subject to tragedy as the Duryeas. Major Duryea killed himself at the Presidio the other day. Another brother had previously met a similar fate, while a third, having slain the father, is shut away from the world as mentally afflicted.

The father had won fame in the civil war, and after that acquired wealth in manufacturing.

Officers of the navy are reported as enraged over the proposed sweeping reduction in personnel. Those scheduled to be retired have a right to a peculiarly poignant brand of indignation. To retain the services of an officer for years, long enough to make him forget what he may have known of other callings, and then throw him overboard, is not courteous treatment.

In the anger of the officers the whole country participates to some degree. If anybody must go overboard, why not a mess of little navy congressmen?

The attitude of Great Britain shows its entire willingness to pay its war debt to the United States. Such rumor of repudiation as there has been emanated from the yellow press.

Great Britain's plan in this respect will have direct effect on the whole financial world, for the proposal to pay, involves an equally well defined intention to collect. Thus the specter of repudiation vanishes.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

If I had a little money to spare—and I haven't and I never will have until I modify my business methods—I would go down to the capital and buy stock in a small wholesale house I know. Because that house is due to be a big house in another twenty years, sure as eggs is eggs. And about that time the principal wholesaler of our fair capital will be realizing about a nickel on the dollar of his presumed assets and be retiring to a distant part of the country to raise chickens. Or else sell life insurance.

"Why don't I ever see you any more, John?" the big wholesaler asked me the other day. "I haven't sold you a bill of goods in almost a year."

Well, I made him a vague and noncommital reply, and took the cigar that he bought me and wished him good luck and bade him good day. I'm the same sort of a liar that most of the rest of us are. I have no intention of ever going back to his place, but I did not want to hurt his feelings. No use making enemies needlessly.

The reason why I am not going back is because he does not deliver the goods. That is to be taken literally. His goods are as good and maybe a little better than those sold in the new, small, up-and-coming house. His prices are as low and maybe a little lower. But when you have gone into his place and selected your goods and put in your order and sometimes paid cash on the nail to expedite matters——

Well, that's all that happens for a long, long time. He is too busy being a business man to see to it that the orders he gets are filled on time and as they should be. He is first rate in the front of the house and is a leader in every city beautiful movement and his wife's name heads all the rest whenever there is a kirmess or something of the sort in town. But if you happen to want a dozen brass beds in a hurry to fill out the stock in the small country store you are conducting forty miles out in the brush you buy them of the small, unconsidered, up-and-coming house. Because your shadow has hardly fallen black on the front of that small store before the hammers in the warehouse are tapping the nails around the consignment that is billed your way.

Lots of people are built that way. They deliver the goods but they do not deliver them on time. And there's no better way to lose customers or friends.

DO YOU KNOW THAT?

One day last November in London 340,000 pieces of soot were found in each cubic foot of air and the diameter of each piece was one twenty-five thousandth of an inch.

EASTER SERVICES AT TUJUNGA CHURCHES

Special Exercises Planned by Pastors of Various Denominations

TUJUNGA, April 15.—All of Tujunga's churches will hold special Easter services tomorrow. With weather which promises to be excellent, and services especially planned for the occasion, it is expected that all of the churches will be filled. Almost every religious faith is represented in the five churches which have been established here within the last few years.

The community church, which was the first organized religious institution in Tujunga, embraces all creeds. This church was established as a non-sectarian institution with Rev. W. H. Wieman as its first pastor, and for several years held services in Bolton hall. Upon the death of Rev. Wieman his son, Dr. Henry Nelson Wieman was called to the pastorate. During the past year the growth of the church has been so great that it has been found necessary to engage Rev. J. U. Stotts as assistant pastor. Services tomorrow will include special music and a sermon by Dr. Wieman.

A Catholic chapel, Our Lady of Lourdes, has been established in Tujunga for some time. Father Tonello is pastor. The building recently erected is now free from debt and improvements are being made on the grounds surrounding it. Easter services will include a low mass at 8:30 and a high mass at 10:30. At the latter, William Tyroler of the Metropolitan Opera company will preside at the organ and a soprano from the Chicago Opera company is expected to sing.

The Church of the Ascension, Episcopal, is on North Pine street. This church has made rapid progress during the past year. The Woman's Guild is an active auxiliary and has accomplished much. Services tomorrow are to be held at 10:30.

The Gospel Mission, recently founded by Mr. and Mrs. Wornum near their home on North Sunset is attracting many to its services. Rev. E. L. Swaney preaches and will deliver a special Easter sermon tomorrow afternoon at 2:30.

The Higher Thought college under Dr. W. Frederick Keeler has established a site in the western part of the community, and has recently opened up a tact on the Talamantes ranch to be known as Hillhaven. Services will be held at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

Celebration Is Planned

A celebration is being planned by the Tujunga chamber of commerce to take place when the bridge over the Tujunga is opened. This is expected to be about May 10. Plans are being made to have county and other officials present at the opening.

THE HIGHWAYMEN

There's the fellow who drives with his eyes straigh ahead,
And watches the road all the while,
He's going somewhere in a hurry instead
Of jogging along with a smile.
He is busy with something, his task's right i view,
And he drives on his journey alone,
And you may see him but he doesn't see you,
For he's busy with plans of his own.

There's the fellow who's off for some sport on th green,
He's off for a half-holiday,
A little bit fagged, as is easily seen,
And needing his few hours of play.
He's eager to share in the sport he has planned
Perhaps as you might be or I,
He sees you there walking, he waves you his hand
And then his big car buzzes by.

And then there's the fellow who looks left and right,
And right down the highway as well,
He seems to take in all the landscape in sight,
And just how he does I can't tell.
He's full of good-nature no care can disturb,
He sees me as I'm walking down,
And says as he pulls his bus up to the curb:
"Jump in and I'll take you down down!"

STATE IS SAVED WORRY OVER COAL

Utah Fuel Received in California Undisturbed by Situation

SAN FRANCISCO, April 15.—No matter what the outcome of the mine strike in the middle western coal fields, California will not have to worry.

Most of the coal in this region comes from the Utah fields, where the open shop is in force, and where there are no labor troubles. The United Mine Workers have been reported as attempting to tie up the western fields, but thus far they have been unsuccessful.

Local coal dealers declare that there is an ample supply of coal on hand here to last 45 days, and more enroute.

Primarily, of course, California uses oil for the most part in many industries where coal is used in the East, and much hydro-electric power is also used.

Even should the strike last long enough, and the present source of supply be cut off, coal could readily be obtained from the British Columbia fields, or from Australia.

FISHING FLEET SAILS

SAN FRANCISCO, April 15.—The spring exodus of the Alaska fisheries fleet is under way. Four vessels of the Alaska Packer Co., have already departed, and the entire fleet will be under way by the end of the month. The first two boats to leave were the Star of Lapland, and the Star of Russia. Nearly all the vessels are loading in Oakland creek with crushed rock for Alaska road making.

GOOD FORM SHOWN BY MORVICH IN FAST WORKOUTS AT JAMAICA, NEW YORK, TRACK

Morvich, outstanding star of the two-year-olds of 1921, and which is expected by many racing experts to manifest his superiority just as conclusively in the three-year-old field of the coming season, has been showing good form in fast workouts at the Jamaica track near New York city. The question now is: will Benjamin Block's hitherto unbeaten colt outdo the record of the super-horse, Man o' War? Morvich is being prepared for the rich Kentucky Derby.

BOOTLEGGING IN MERCHANDISE IS RUSSIAN WAY

Dodging Heavy Taxes Merchants Trade By Stealth

MOSCOW, April 15.—United Press Staff Correspondent by mail.)—A "back-door" commerce, carried on through the back doors of private homes, has begun to flourish in Moscow on account of the crushingly heavy overhead costs, taxes, rent, license fees, etc., connected with legitimate stores, with conventional front doors, and official show windows.

Already this unofficial kind of trade has reached such proportions that in some instances it successfully competes with the regular stores. Some of the "back-door" establishments have larger and finer stocks accumulated by combing the markets, than the front-window stores.

The choicest millinery shop in Moscow, many art and antique stores, and the best drug stores are of this character.

They do not advertise, of course. Their trade comes by the friend-quietly-tells-friend route. But in Moscow, probably the greatest whisper-it-about-city in the world, this method is effective.

In company with Russian friends, I have visited four or five of these "stores."

To reach the millinery shop, we left our sleigh in the courtyard of an immense white house which must have been the residence of a former nobleman. We turned into a tiny door, and jet darkness. My guide led me up two flights and pushed a door. We literally fell into a lighted, narrow corridor. We entered a room. The milliner herself opened the door. The general impression of the room was that of a family storeroom in a middle western home in the United States.

On glass sideboard near the door were three or four new hats, running to bright greens and browns. The milliner produced several others she was making to order. The hats were all simple, but tasteful. The prices ranged from three or four to eight million roubles.

Seated at one of the tables was a soberly-dressed woman in earnest conversation with one of the clerks. The "house," however, would not give her what she thought her jewels were worth.

Spread across one of the boxes was one of the most exquisite Oriental shawls I have ever seen. Upon it lay a dainty little pair of Tartar mittens—white leather, with a design in silk thread on the back. For them, the proprietor asked only 600,000 roubles (about $1.50 at the present rate of exchange.

She then produced a lace scarf which my friend said was one of the finest pieces of lacework she had seen.

After wandering for five minutes through one hallway after another, we finally located the front stairway and descended into a beautiful reception hall. A couple of Red soldiers sat at a desk near the doorway (which would indicate that the shop was operating under government protection), one let us out the front door, without asking how we got in.

With another Russian friend I went to a "back-door" drug store which, so far as I could judge, was running without the knowledge of the Kremlin. We groped through a dark courtyard, as before, and skirted the rear of a big house. The druggist was a woman of perhaps 28. The drug store was a cupboard in the kitchen. Yet it contained my friend, explained, one of the best stocks of chemicals in that part of the city.

"We used to give our jewels for castor oil," the wife of a former Russian ambassador once told me.

CHAMPS TILT FOR GOLF CUP AT PASADENA

Amateur Championship of So. Calif. Contests Is Scheduled Easter

LOS ANGELES, April 15.—Golf fans are all aglow with enthusiasm over the Southern California amateur championship which is scheduled to be held on the Flintridge and Pasadena courses Easter Sunday.

The North vs. South match will be held on that day after the qualifying rounds this week are all out of the way. The Roger D. Lapham trophy is hung up for the winner. The Lapham trophy is now held by the South. This encounter will mark the second tilt for the cup. The first meeting was held at Del Monte last September. Arthur H. Vincent will captain the northern contenders.

SUGAR PINE CAMP OPENS AT FRESNO

FRESNO, Cal., April 15.—Two mushroom "shack towns" have sprung up between here and the San Joaquin river, as a prelude to the erection of a $2,000,000 sugar pine mill here.

At present a railroad from the foothills, 50 miles away, to the mill site is being laid. A large number of men will be employed in the mill and its affiliated enterprises.

WIRED HER DEATH

MUNICH, April 15.— Smartly-dressed woman leaned out of a first-class compartment in the Orient Express when it stopped for a moment at Salzburg, en route to Munich. She handed the stationmaster a telegram and the money to dispatch it. When the train had moved on the stationmaster saw it was a telegram from Mlle. Marie Lange to relatives in Paris, announcing her death. The stationmaster telegraphed ahead to Munich. The woman's compartment was searched when the train arrived. Mlle. Lange was found dying of poison.

NEW PACKING HOUSE

FRESNO, April 15.—California peach and fig growers have under consideration the erection of several packing plants here at a cost of $1,000,000. A recent fire destroyed the original plant here, at a loss of $200,000, which is responsible for the new move. One 20-acre site has already been purchased, and more land will be acquired, it is declared.
